Building in budget

Funds for the human services building at Bloomsburg State College have been included in the capital budget proposed by Governor Dick Thornburgh. $6.4 million have been allocated for this building which will provide class rooms, faculty offices and a permanent home for BSC's school of nursing. Alumni and others interested are urged to contact their legislators and give enthusiastic support to this excellent development. This new educational facility will be of great importance to serve public needs, according to BSC President James H. McCormick.

Alumni director named

Donald Albert Watts, '37, the first executive director of the alumni association has submitted his notification of retirement. Don, a native of Millville, PA, received his B.S. degree from BSC and his M.S. from Bucknell University in 1940. He has served as teacher in Mill City and Watertown; principal-teacher in Potts Grove; supervising principal at Montandon and at Westmont Hilltop Schools, Johnstown. Between 1960-64 Don was superintendent of Liberty-Fremont H.S. District, Libertyville, Illinois. In 1964 he moved to Harrington Park, NJ, where he was superintendent of the Northern Valley Regional High School District until he retired in 1974. He has been executive director of BSC alumni association since August 1975.

In addition to three years in the US Navy as an officer aboard a destroyer in WWII, Don spent two years with US Rubber Company as Supervisor of Industrial Statistics and was self-employed for seven years. He has been associated with many educational and professional organizations and served on the North Shore Area Boy Scout Council, Libertyville Chamber of Commerce and as president of Closter (NJ) Rotary Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts have two sons, Donald, a graduate of Bucknell University and the University of Pittsburgh, who resides in Freehold, NJ, and Thomas, a graduate of Transylvania University of Lexington, Kentucky, who lives in Hollywood, MD. Don and Gladys plan to reside in Almedia after some extended travel during the coming summer. Their address will continue to be 3755 First Street, Bloomsburg, PA, 17815.

Douglas C. Hippenstiel, '68, will be the new alumni affairs director as of March 24th. Doug was class treasurer in his freshman and sophomore years. He was a member of the student newspaper staff (four years) and editor (1 and 1/2 years). Other activities include yearbook staff (1968), community government association (1 and 1/2 years) and a member of Sigma Tau Delta. Among his college awards are Service Key and Who's Who Among American College Students.

Doug's last assignment before returning to BSC, was editor of the Saturday-Sunday paper, Press-Enterprise. Prior to that he was managing editor, The Morning Press, Bloomsburg, PA. At times he was assistant editor/night editor, part-time reporter/writer for the Morning Press.

From September 1970 thru June 1971 he was a teacher at Central Columbia High School where he taught English, composition and journalism. From September 1968 thru June 1970 he taught English at Danville Senior High School. He also advised the student paper. While attending BSC, he worked for the Danville News as a part-time reporter/photographer during 1966-1968.

Doug is married to the former Kathy Reimard of Bloomsburg. They have two children, Joanna Kathryn, 7 and Robert Michael, 6. They make their home in Lightstreet, PA, 17839.

Program reaching out

The School of Extended Programs is concerned with continuing education and provides credit and non-credit courses for the residents of Pennsylvania in various locations.

Last fall, 727 non-degree students were registered for courses, while this year 810 have registered, an increase of over 10 percent. Courses are also being offered at the undergraduate level in Harrisburg, Williamsport and at the Muncy Correctional Institute.

The School of Extended Programs, in cooperation with the Office of Graduate Studies, has been arranging off-campus graduate courses throughout eastern Pennsylvania for the past five years. In reviewing the map of central Pennsylvania, one finds courses being offered in the following geographic areas: Bucks and Montgomery counties, Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Williamsport, Elizabethville, Frackville, Hamburg, Shamokin and Middleburg.

Another part of extended programs has been to provide non-credit courses for the citizens of the immediate geographic area. This fall has found an interesting menu of courses ranging from the construction of stained glass to French for travelers, from Wall Street insider to horseback riding. The popularity of the mini-course program has increased each year since its inception in 1974.

This past fall, a new center for undergraduate off-campus courses was arranged with Geisinger Medical Center through the cooperation of Barbara Munschauer, director of nursing services, and Richard Haupt, assistant administrative director for human resources.

Over 100 people are enrolled in courses at GMC through the offerings of the School of Extended Programs.

Award honors former teacher

Joseph P. Kubert '66 reports the establishment of the Treblow Organic Chemistry Award at Mahanoy Area High School. The award, presented to a graduating senior who intends to pursue chemistry as a career, is given in honor of Dr. Mordecai Treblow, who was an associate professor of chemistry at BSC from 1961 to 1967.

Kubert and John P. Minalda '64 presented the first Treblow award to Richard Huebner, a June graduate of Mahanoy Area.

"Dr. Treblow was a tremendous influence on Mr. Minalda and me," Kubert explained. "Although the award is of nominal financial value, it is our way of saying thanks to a fine man and an excellent teacher."

Mary Ann T. Colussi '76
(See 1976 Class Notes)

Housing office cited

The housing office at BSC has been recognized in "The Chronicle of Higher Education" for its program honoring good landlords.

Under this program, the housing office awards a certificate of appreciation to the landlord who, in the opinion of student tenants, provides "fine accommodations and humane treatment, and follows good management procedures."

Past recipients include Al Lenzini, Mr. and Mrs. David Yoder and Bob Griffin.

The certificate is signed by President McCormick and Dr. Jerrold Griffis, vice president for student life. It's presented at a special luncheon.

Carter invited to BSC

President Jimmy Carter has been invited to be a "distinguished lecturer" at Bloomsburg State College's fourth mock presidential nominating convention, according to James W. Percey, associate professor of political science.

In reply to the invitation, Carter's deputy appointments secretary, Fran Voorde, said, "We have made note of your invitation and will be in touch with you nearer the date about the possibility of the President's acceptance."

Past distinguished lecturers at the convention have included Shirley Chisholm, Gerald Ford, Frank Church, Lowell Weicker, and George McGovern. Delegates to the convention adopt a platform and nominate candidates for president and vice-president on one of the two major tickets.

The Pennsylvania presidential primary election is on April 22.

This engagement will draw a diversified audience of over 2000 persons. The lecturers will speak in the Haas Auditorium, between March 24-31 and April 8-18.

BSC, LCCC in agreement

Five Pennsylvania colleges have made an articulation agreement with Luzerne County Community College, which will provide early transfer acceptance from LCCC to either Bloomsburg State College, College Misericordia, East Stroudsburg State College, Kutztown State College, or Mansfield State College.

Upon successful completion of the two year study at LCCC, the students receive associate degrees in their respective fields and are guaranteed admission at the baccalaureate institution with advanced standing credit for courses of study successfully completed at LCCC.

The courses offered by LCCC are comparable to those at four-year institutions and carry the same accreditation by the Pennsylvania Department of Education and the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges.

Economically, the program is appealing to students, many of whom would find it financially prohibitive to gain a college education. Tuition costs at LCCC are $20 per credit hour, approximately $600 for an academic year of two semesters and 15 credit hours per semester.

Yodock elected prexy

Bill Yodock, an equipment operator in the maintenance department at Bloomsburg State College, has been re-elected president of local 2361 of the Association of Federal, State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) on the local campus.

Other officers for the 1979-80 college year include: vice president, Linda Long; secretary, Rosemary McGrady; treasurer, Charlie Tyson; executive board member, Doyle Acornley; trustee, Dorothy Sitler; and sergeant-at-arms, Hubert "Curly" Rescorla.

Since the union has been on the Bloomsburg campus many benefits have been gained in the area of health and management/employee relations, according to reelected secretary Rosemary McGrady. "Management has been very cooperative with us," states Yodock.

Local 2361 represents BSC's non-instructional staff at the bargaining table and in legislative matters.

Plan now to attend Alumni Day

From the archives by R. W. Fromm

Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise. Poor Richard's philosophy seemingly was adopted as policy by Bloomsburg State Normal School. The 1900-1901 Student Handbook (predecessor to The Pilot) reveals an exacting schedule—by today's standards. Nevertheless, even in those days it must have been an extraordinary student who could accomplish all that was suggested between 9:45 and 9:55 pm:

Study Hour

Study hour begins at 7:00 pm in the fall and spring and about 6:45 pm in the winter. Closes at 9:45 pm.

Between the close of study hour and the first retiring bell is an interval that is used by students to fill water pitchers, visit fellows on their own halls, practice light gymnastics in their own room and attend to all matters that need attention before retiring.

Retiring Bell

At 9:55 pm the first retiring bell rings, announcing the time when all students are expected to go to their own rooms, and prepare to retire for the night.

At 10:00 pm the last retiring bell strikes and all students are expected to extinguish their lights promptly, and to retire to their beds for the night and remain quiet.

Rising

At 6:15 am the electric bells and the hand bells ringing through the halls announce the rising hour.

Would President McCormick have time for this sort of thing today? In 1895 when our institution was Bloomsburg Literary Institute and State Normal School, and the eight departments included those called Physical Culture, Manual Training, and Stenography and Typewriting, and the top administrator was called principal. Dr. Judson P. Welsh, the principal, sent the following letter to the father of a troubled "freshman."

Bloomsburg, Pa., Sept. 7, 1895

Mr. W. C. Foresman,
Alvira, Union Co., Pa.

Dear Sir,

Your son Griffy has been very homesick. He wanted badly to go home today, but on consultation with the teachers, I learned that he is getting over it, and we thought best to hold him over till next week, as by that time we believe he will be all right. He has been too homesick to get much of a start in his studies, but we are pleased with him, and think he is going to make a good student when he gets rid of this feeling, so he can study. He is in much better spirits today, and I think if you would write him an encouraging letter it would be better than for him to go home.

Yours truly,
J.P. Welsh

Accreditation reaffirmed

Accreditation of Bloomsburg State College has been reaffirmed by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. The action followed a review of the report submitted by the nine-member evaluation team that visited the college in April.

The report referred to Bloomsburg as an already successful institution and commended the college for the dedication and competence of the faculty, administration and support staff. Students were reported, for the most part, as viewing faculty as accessible, understanding and helpful, and that they (the students) are, for the most part, pleased with the quality of their instruction.

The evaluation team's responsibilities included a study of potential problem areas and recommendations for possible action by the college. Concerns about national predictions of enrollment declines in the 1980s were evident in the report of the evaluation team that visited BSC.

The commission has requested a report by April 15, 1980, on the college's "plans for adjusting to changes in student enrollment, including action taken to address departmental (major programs) productivity, longer range program projections and related plans to cope with future faculty needs, specifically with regard to the tenure situation."

The 81 percent tenure rate was viewed by the evaluation team as limiting the college's flexibility for adjusting to enrollment declines. In a response to the report, the college called attention to a vigorous professional development program which is attempting to deal with the needs for faculty/staff redirection and growth as one effort already being made to prepare for possible changes in the enrollment pattern.

"In general, the areas of concern pointed out by the team are shared by the college," Dr. James H. McCormick commented. "Paramount among them is the urgent need for additional classroom, office and library space and the need for continuing flexibility to meet changing student and societal needs. We hope that the team's comments will reinforce our own belief in the necessity for improvement in these areas, and we are grateful for their support in our efforts — joint efforts of administration, faculty, students, staff, trustees and alumni — to 'make a good college better'."

Fiscal problems of the institution were addressed in the introductory statement: "While state ownership has permitted the institution to make quality post-secondary education available to many who could not otherwise afford college, in recent years state appropriations have not matched inflationary trends. Prevailing economic and political conditions seem to have led the Commonwealth to view appropriations for higher education as a burdensome expense rather than a wise investment, and the institution is being forced to operate within tightening financial constraints."

BSC joins consortium

Bloomsburg State College and five other colleges formed the Northeast Pennsylvania Education Center Consortium this fall during a meeting at Luzerne Community College. The other schools, in addition to BSC and Luzerne, are Marywood College, Wilkes College, Kings College, and College Misericordia.

A $223,000 federal grant to the consortium will be used to assist students who need counseling, tutoring or financial assistance, and to help out-of-state clients to apply for admission to post-secondary schools.

The grant was awarded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and was sponsored through the office of Congressman Daniel J. Flood. The grant will be divided among the six colleges and two regional outreach centers, located at Danville High School and the Job Corps Center at Drums.

BSC's part of the program is under the direction of Dr. Jesse Bryan, author of the grant proposal and director of the BSC Center for Academic Development.

Karpinski, McCormick, Sperry, Poplawsky

Faculty candidates for awards

Dr. Andrew J. Karpinski, chairman of the department of special education, has been recommended for one of eight Commonwealth Distinguished Service Awards.

Dr. James R. Sperry of the history department and Dr. Alex J. Poplawsky of the psychology department, along with Karpinski, represented BSC in state competition held the first week of October in Harrisburg.

Karpinski is credited with uniting and leading the special education faculty to improve specialized teacher training. He has worked to secure grants for the institution, with increased funds for services to students resulting.

In addition, he has been a central figure in developing his department's curriculum and the new master of science degree program in education of exceptional persons.

All 14 state colleges presented candidates for awards in the categories of excellence in teaching and service. Their applications were reviewed by a state-appointed commission, and the candidates appeared before that group to talk about their contributions to their colleges and teaching disciplines.

New associate degree program

BSC was recently granted approval by the state Department of Education to offer the associate degree program, health services associate, to those health workers who have obtained clinical education from an accredited health agency.

The two-year program is available to those who desire additional education in communicative and leadership skills to complement their clinical backgrounds. Health workers who may wish to enter the program include medical laboratory technicians, licensed practical nurses, histologic technicians and laboratory assistants.

The initiation of this associate degree program was encouraged by the fact that many health workers are now being strongly urged to continue their education in a collegiate setting.

It should also be noted that the role of the health worker has expanded to include greater responsibility in the hospital and nursing home setting, as well as a more substantial commitment to community health.

The curriculum includes 63 credit hours — 51 credit hours of college course work and 12 hours awarded for satisfactory completion of a clinical program elsewhere.

Additional information concerning the program can be obtained by contacting Dr. James E. Cole, chairperson, Department of Biological and Allied Health Sciences.

Radiologic technology degree

A new baccalaureate degree program in radiologic technology, formerly called X-ray technology, is being offered at BSC. Professionals in this field work in hospital settings taking X-rays of patients.

The new major has two levels. Level I, the advanced level, offers a two-year hospital clinical program for those with some background in the field. Level II, the beginning level, requires the student to spend his first year on campus, the next two years at the Geisinger Medical Center, Danville, and the fourth year back on campus.

Dr. James E. Cole, chairperson of the department of biological and allied health sciences, said "Geisinger equipment will only allow for a few students, but our future sights include more."

The advanced level has already begun, and the generic level will begin in the fall of 1980. Persons interested in the program should contact Dr. Cole.

Protestant Campus Ministry reactivated

The Protestant Campus Ministry has been reactivated after two years of inaction. Under the leadership of the Rev. Gregory C. Osterberg, the PCM offers Sunday evening worship, dinner discussion groups, and retreat weekends.

An exciting new project called "Community Living Room" is located in the basement of Osterberg's house. The room is open at all times to students involved in PCM.

The purpose of PCM is to provide a place for people to worship at all times.

Osterberg and his wife, Debbie, live at 710 E. Third St., Bloomsburg.

Just so you know

It is quite possible that some people will receive the second fund drive request even though they have already made a contribution or pledge. This year our fund drive appeal will be delivered from the printer to the addressing service and with the automated labeling system there is no way of eliminating the names of those who have already mailed their contributions. Since the number of people involved is very small, we felt you would understand the problem and accept our apology.

Teaching Initiative Awards

Dr. Mary Barrall Hill and Dr. Ben C. Alter, BSC faculty members, received the college's first Teaching Initiative Awards at a tea held on August 1 at Buckalew Place, home of President James McCormick.

The new program, recommended by the Professional Development Committee, provides acknowledgement and encouragement of faculty-inspired teaching initiatives that are designed to increase student learning, to enhance the learning process in some way, or to enhance student attitudes toward learning.

Both recipients, who were nominated by faculty colleagues, received a certificate of merit.

Dr. Hill is a native of Mifflinville and has been a member of the special education department since 1973. A native of Shamokin, Dr. Alter joined the department of foreign languages in 1964. He is a past president of the Pennsylvania State Modern Language Association.

Dean Wolfe resigns

Dr. Richard O. Wolfe, '60, has resigned from his position as dean of the school of extended programs at Bloomsburg State College effective May 30, and will become associate dean for doctoral studies and professor of education at Gonzaga University, Spokane, Washington, beginning June 15, 1980.

Dr. Wolfe's duties will include directing a new doctoral program in educational leadership which will be implemented at Gonzaga this summer. Thirty-eight students have been admitted to the program and will start their studies in early July. Dean Wolfe first became acquainted with Gonzaga during the 1972-73 school year, when he served as a visiting professor to that institution while on leave from Bloomsburg.

"As an alumnus and administrator, I've enjoyed my association with the Bloomsburg College community immensely," Wolfe stated. "However, my new position will afford me the opportunity to be creative in directing the new program and also to do some teaching, research, and writing that I just didn't have the time to do in recent years. I'm looking forward to the exciting challenge."

Dr. Wolfe joined the faculty at BSC in 1967 as an assistant professor of education and was promoted to the rank of associate and full professor in 1970 and 1972 respectively. He served as dean of continuing education and summer schools before being named dean of the school of extended programs in 1974.

Following the resignation of Dr. Dayton Pickett in 1976, Dr. Wolfe served as acting vice president for academic affairs for the ensuing college year until Dr. James Mitchell was named to the position.

Dr. Wolfe received his elementary and secondary education in the schools of Schuylkill Haven, Pa. His bachelor of science degree was earned at BSC in 1960, his master of education degree at Rutgers University in 1964, and his doctor of education degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1972. Prior to coming to Bloomsburg, he was an assistant director of student teaching at Trenton State College, a teacher in the Princeton (N.J.)

public schools and the Lower Dauphin area schools at Hummelstown, Pa.

State-wide, he recently completed a term as president of the State College and University Council on Continuing Education. His numerous activities at the college include serving on the president's council, presidential planning commission, committee on professional development, a member and chair of the Council of Academic Deans, member of the Alumni Board of Directors, and advisor to the 1970 and 1972 classes.

Being involved in community activities, Dean Wolfe has been on the Bloomsburg Area Board of Education, treasurer of the Columbia-Montour Vocational Technical Coordinating Board, and chairman of the Wesley United Methodist Church administrative board. He is also an active Kiwanian.

Dr. and Mrs. Wolfe are the parents of two children, Lisa, 16, and John, 10. The family resides at 320 Market Street in Bloomsburg.

Photographs sought for alumni gallery

The Department of Biological and Allied Health Sciences wishes to obtain information regarding the educational pursuits of its alumni.

Specifically, the department is compiling a photo gallery for permanent display in Hartline Science Center and although it has mailed informational requests to a lot of people, it doesn't want to overlook anyone.

The department is interested in the names and locations of alumni who have obtained terminal degrees (MD, OD, PhD, DO, DDS etc.).

A 2X2 photo (any vintage), current position, the name of the school awarding the degree(s) and any significant achievements will be appreciated.

Mail the above information to Michael Herbert of the Biology and Allied Health Sciences department.

Dr. Margaret Spanseller, director of Bloomsburg State College's reading clinic, is also director of the conference and has put together a program which will be informative to teachers, reading specialists and administrators. In addition to the two general sessions and the banquet (Friday evening) there are 47 demonstration and discussion sessions covering a very wide range of interests.

Two of the speakers scheduled to address the conference are Dr. Richard Allington, associate professor, State University of New York at Albany and Miss Lois Lowry, author of A Summer to Die, who will be the banquet speaker. Her topic is, "The Patchwork Craft of Fiction." Other speakers and leaders include Drs. Gilbert Schiffman, Paul Daniels, Nicholas Silveroli, Stanley Rosner, Jerry Weiss, Stanley Levinson, Donald L. Cleland and Marcy More.

Dance marathon

Of the 154 dancers that had started the 1980 dance marathon, 52 survived the 50 hours. The local Mental Health Association, which received the money raised from the marathon, ended the weekend $8000 richer.

Bob Crawford and Janice Walters brought in the most money—$657. Michele Blosyinsky and Barb Kwiatkowski were voted "best dancers" and Deb DiMarco and Camille Strausser were judged "most exciting."

"You are to be commended" Dr. McCormick, BSC president told the dancers and the crowd. "You are giving so much of yourselves, your time and energy, to helping others."

Barb Kwiatkowski, a senior from Atlas, summed it up best when she said, "It's a good way to end a senior year." It was indeed.

BSC, Penn State offer double degree program

Students at Bloomsburg State College will soon have the opportunity to obtain both a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of science degree in a new five-year program.

Following an agreement with Pennsylvania State University, students may spend three years at Bloomsburg studying liberal arts subjects and pre-engineering courses. Upon completion they may enroll as juniors in Penn State's engineering program.

"Successful completion of these programs will lead to two degrees," said Dr. James Mitchell, vice president for Academic Affairs, "a baccalaureate from Bloomsburg and a B.S. in engineering from Penn State. With this agreement, a student may complete through five years of study what otherwise could require six or more years."

Students in the program will have to maintain grade averages higher than would normally be required for graduation, Dr. Mitchell said. Test results and academic records will be exchanged with Penn State to aid in the guiding and counseling of students.

Similar cooperative education agreements have been made between Penn State and 13 other institutions.

Personnel changes

Charles Walter of Catawissa received a plaque in appreciation of eight years service as an auto mechanic at BSC. Mr. Walter, who began working for the college on February 28, 1972, retired January 11, 1980.

Wallace E. Mottern, custodial worker I, retired October 5th, 1979 after eleven years of service. Max M. Roeder, utility plant operator II completed 15 years of service as of November 2, 1979. And Martin T. Veneski, computer systems analyst, retired on October 12, 1979 after nine years at BSC.

The following non-instructional employees have resigned from their jobs at BSC. This past fall, Candace L. Atkinson, information writer I; Keith M. Eves, custodial worker I; Kim D. Force, clerk typist II; Eileen F. Hettinger, clerk steno II; and Joseph P. Metro, institutional maintenance superintendent II resigned January 1, 1980.

Two part-time faculty members have been instructing at the college for the 1979-80 academic year. Harold C. Ackerman served in the capacity of writing coordinator in the center for academic development and Virgie D. Bryan worked as reading specialist in the CAD office.

Morucci, Pettis cited

Mike Morucci, outstanding BSC football running back, closed his college career with an enviable record. He has been contacted by most of the national football league teams and some Canadian teams and is waiting for the professional football drafts April 28 and 29. The many awards accumulated by Morucci include: Player of the Year for Division III Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Southern Region; Kodak All American Division II Team; Honorable mention on the Associated Press All-American College Division Team; member, the First Team of the Pennsylvania Conference for the third straight year and to the ECAC, Division III weekly honor rolls 13 times, twice as player of the week and to the Pennsylvania Conference All-Star selection for the past 3 years. In four years he established 14 BSC records.

Coach Ron Puhl had this to say about his star running back: "Mike, in addition to his outstanding abilities of running, blocking, and pass receiving, is a gentleman and a leader respected by both his teammates and opponents." The six foot-two, 210 pound senior running back was co-captain of the Huskies which ended a disappointing 2-8 season.

Morucci's career yards in rushing was 3535 in 787 carries plus 178 yards in passing for a total career yardage of 3713. In his senior year, Morucci rushed for 1221 yards in 10 games, averaging 122.1 yards per game, to finish among the top 10 NCAA, Division III rushers of the nation. He also had 13 pass receptions for 124 yards and one touchdown. He also scored nine touchdowns running.

Coach Jim Butterfield of Ithaca College had this to say about Mike: "He is one of the top backs we have faced in the last three years. I would love to have him playing for me. I certainly endorse him highly—he's a fine football player."

Other comments from opposing coaches include the following from Coach Gene Carpenter, Millersville State College: "Mike is one of the finest backs I have seen in my 10 years here at Millersville. His determination, intensity and desire in getting additional yardage on his own is indicative of his performances this year and throughout his college career." Coach Dennis Douds of East Stroudsburg State College had this to say: "I can't remember when we played against a better running back than Morucci. He has power and speed; he can run inside and outside, around people and through people and on top of that, he's a fine receiver. He can do it all."

Defensive end Kurt Pettis was also named to the 1979 ECAC Division III Southern New York region All-Star Football Team and was previously selected on the first team Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania Conference. Pettis is one of the top defensive ends to compete for BSC. He led this year's Husky defensive units in sacks with 14. He also had 28 unassisted tackles, 78 assisted tackles, a fumble recovery and a blocked kick.

BSC was fortunate to have such outstanding performers both on offensive and defensive play.

Ron Puhl

Clark Boler

Boler new grid coach

Ron Puhl, head football coach at Bloomsburg State College for the past four years, has requested reassignment of his responsibilities in the department of health, physical education and athletics, it was announced by H. Cecil Turberville, athletic director.

Puhl's request was referred to by Dr. Alfred Forsyth, dean of the school of arts and sciences, for consideration.

Puhl was named head football coach in December 1975 for the 1976 season. His first year the Huskies were 2-7 and progressed to a 4-5 record in 1977. In 1978 Bloomsburg (6-4) had the first winning season at the school since 1970. A number of close games were involved in the eight losses experienced last year against two wins.

In making his request, Puhl stated, "I have made this decision after a very careful review of my priorities and feel it is in the best interest of myself, my family and the college. On the whole, I have enjoyed my association with the BSC football program as I felt it was on the upswing, particularly two years ago.

"I was disappointed with this past season, but I certainly derived a great deal of pleasure in the honors received by a number of the players including the outstanding seasons by All-American Mike Morucci. I plan to pursue some educational opportunities which I hope will be beneficial to both me and the college. I do want to wish the best of luck to whomever the college officials name as my replacement."

Rodrick "Clark" Boler, a member of Alabama's 1961 national championship team, has been named head football coach at Bloomsburg State College it was announced today by Athletic Director H. Cecil Turberville. Boler, who joined the health, physical education and athletic staff as a teacher and coach in 1968, replaces Ron Puhl.

"Boler's appointment was made through the college's normal process of filling assignments within the department," Turberville stated. "It has the full approval of Dean Alfred Forsyth, Vice President James Mitchell, and President James McCormick."

Boler has served as head baseball coach for the past 11 years and will stay on in that capacity just for the 1980 spring season. "With our spring baseball program well along the way, I feel it would be unfair to the players not to see this season through," Boler said.

Boler indicates the naming of assistants and the plans for spring drills and recruiting will be made in the near future. Under a new conference ruling, Bloomsburg will be permitted spring drills for the first time in many years. The Huskies had a disappointing 2-8 season in 1979 but were competitive in nearly every game.

The Alabama native has a broad background in both coaching and participation as an athlete. In addition to coaching baseball, he has been head coach of cross country at BSC for the past four years and was an assistant football coach for eight years from 1968-1976. On defense his assignment included defensive line coach, linebacker coach and defensive coordinator. He also was an offensive coordinator for two years.

Boler was a member of two of the Alabama teams Joe Namath played on (1962 and 1963) and then served as a freshman and scout team coach at Alabama in 1964, the year the Crimson Tide won another national championship. The Bama team of 1962 played Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl and in 1963 Boler was senior game captain when the Tide played Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Among the letters of recommendation received on behalf of Boler for the coaching position was one from Paul Bryant, Alabama's athletic director and football coach. Boler received both his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from the University of Alabama.

Boler has also been a PIAA basketball official for over eight years. He is married to the former Tyrann Charlton. The couple and their two children Rod, age 11, and Leslie, 5, reside at 510 E. Fourth St. in Bloomsburg.

Recap of winter sports season

A recap of BSC's varsity teams shows that the athletes gave a very good account of themselves during the season just completed.

The women's swimming team won six meets and lost three. BSC finished fifth in the PC championships. It was a fine performance that certainly deserves kudos.

In basketball, the women won six games and lost ten. BSC did not qualify for the PC championships, but the team gave it the old college try every game.

The men's swimming team won six meets and lost six. In the Indiana Relays, BSC finished fifth, and in the PC championships was sixth with 30 points. This was a very creditable record for a long and hard schedule.

The men's basketball team finished the season with 11 wins and 9 losses. BSC won the Keystone Classic on January 4-5. The team played some heads-up ball when they were on the court.

The wrestlers won the BSC Invitational, came in second in the Lehigh Tournament and the Wilkes Open.

"There was an unusual occurrence at an autumn meeting of the Bloomsburg

Kiwanis Club. Members sang the birthday song without Howard F. Fenstermaker at the piano.

"The reason was the 86th anniversary of the birth of the Berwick native. The acapella tribute was undoubtedly off key but definitely sincere, for there have been few in the club and in the community who have contributed more through the years to civic projects while staying in the wings and reluctantly taking bows when forcefully placed on center stage.

"Howard's principal fields of endeavor have been at Bloomsburg State College as a long-time faculty member and as a key man in the BSC alumni, his church and numerous civic activities.

"When there is a dinner or any type of gathering where piano accompaniment is required and Howard is present, it is just taken for granted he'll preside at the keyboard. He's played on pianos in excellent tune and those that hadn't been tuned for years, but the result is always satisfactory."

THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY

Vol. 80 No.3

Bloomsburg State College

Summer, 1980

An important message

At their April meeting, your Alumni Association board of directors made an important decision concerning The Alumni Quarterly.

Like nearly everything else, the cost of publishing and distributing The Quarterly has increased dramatically in the past few years. This year it would cost over $10,000 to continue distribution of The Quarterly to all alumni.

At the same time, the projects and services of the Association are being funded by only about 10 percent of our 24,000 living alumni.

The directors therefore decided to limit distribution of The Quarterly only to alumni who contribute to the annual fund drive. This decision will cut costs and free a greater portion of the annual budget for projects to benefit the college.

The directors hope the decision will provide additional incentive for alumni to become active, contributing members of the Association.

The September issue of The Quarterly will be sent only to alumni who have mailed their 1980 contributions by August 31. (The December issue will be sent only to those who have contributed by November 30.)

You won't want to miss any of the exciting news that will be published in the September issue:

- * Alumnus leaves $10,000 to BSC.
- * Alumni Room to be created in Carver Hall.
- * Alumna gives $5,000 for scholarship.
- * Businessman to provide 4-year wrestling scholarship.
- * Alumni Family Festival at BSC next summer.
- * Plans for Homecoming 1980 (November 1).
- * News about alumni and the college.

Please remember that contributions are for the current calendar year. To receive the full benefits of membership, including The Alumni Quarterly, you should send your contribution as early each year as possible. The 1981 campaign will be launched early in the New Year. The March 1981 Quarterly will tentatively be mailed to ALL alumni, but the June issue will be sent only to those who have contributed by May 31, 1981.

Fund update

Sixty-one members of the Class of 1930, celebrating the 50th anniversary of their graduation, have presented the Alumni Association with a check for $1,247.

That gift brings this year's fund drive to $29,452 in gifts and pledges from 1,279 alumni (as of June 20).

This year's participation rate is a substantial improvement over June 22, 1979, when 908 alumni had contributed or pledged to the 1979 fund drive.

The class with the highest number of contributors to the 1980 campaign — to date — is the Class of 1977, with 68.

Distribution of contributors by decade is as follows: 1900-09, 7; 1910-19, 54; 1920-29, 213; 1930-39, 197; 1940-49, 107; 1950-59, 89; 1960-69, 182; 1970-79, 432.

A second letter of appeal will be mailed in late July or early August. The annual phonathon will be held in early fall.

The Association's goal is to raise at least $50,000 by the end of this calendar year.

Alumnus proud of BSC

William C. Sheridan '58 and Mrs. Sheridan (Mary J. Lauro '61) recently visited the campus with their son. After returning home, Mr. Sheridan wrote to President McCormick.

The letter made the faculty and staff of the college feel good, so we asked Mr. Sheridan for permission to share it with the rest of our alumni. The letter follows:

"It is at once with great pride and humility that I write to you.

"Last Thursday, April 24, my wife and I returned to B.S.C. after an absence of twelve years (the last occasion for a visit was the tenth reunion of the class of 1958 of which I was pleased to be a member). Nevertheless, we were extremely pleased with what we saw and experienced upon our return. In particular we are grateful to the abundant hospitality of Thomas Davies, Vice-President Buckingham, Norman Hilgar, and other staff members who gave generously of their time in order to make us feel not only welcome but very important.

"The occasion of our visit was not entirely social since our son, Buddy, a junior in high school, is in the process of visiting colleges before making application next year. Your staff in Admissions, Placement and the Business Department were both efficient and warm in their services.

"Finally, however, I arrive at the major purpose of my letter. In my capacity as Director of Personnel I have occasion to visit many colleges and universities throughout the country. As a parent of a youth approaching college I have visited other colleges and universities with the scrutiny of a protective father. As an alumnus of B.S.C. I am fairly bursting with pride over the high quality of maintenance and care the buildings and grounds at B.S.C. so obviously display.

"We have toured many colleges, presumably more prestigious, where we found dingy marred and gloomy buildings; poorly trimmed and weed crowded shrubs and lawns; unsightly and hideous architecture which was neither functional nor aesthetic.

"At B.S.C. we were greeted by not only pleasant people but also attractive, neatly groomed and well-designed buildings and grounds which are not only pleasant but also practical.

"Please accept our most sincere expression of appreciation and please extend to those appropriate and responsible members of your staff our heartiest congratulations on a job well done."

(Mr. Sheridan is director of personnel of The Public Schools of Brookline, Mass.)

We're guilty!

Experts warn that publications of this kind should be kept short — 16 pages or fewer — so the reader won't be overwhelmed by too much to read.

We flew in the face of that warning with this issue of The Quarterly (24 pages) because we had so much information we wanted to pass on to you.

We don't expect anyone to read everything from cover to cover at one sitting, but we hope you will keep The Quarterly handy until you have had a chance to look at it carefully by reading a little at a time.

Then, instead of throwing it away, we suggest that you "recycle" The Quarterly by passing it on to a member of the family or a friend who might be a prospective BSC student.

As always, we welcome your news items and your suggestions for improving this important communication link between the college and its alumni.

The wait is over!

The New Orleans Saints ended Mike Morucci's vigil of the National Football League draft by picking the Bloomsburg State College record setter in the seventh round — the first of six on April 30.

Morucci was the first of three running backs selected by the Saints on the second day of the two-day session in New York. The others were Frank Mordica, Vanderbilt, in the ninth round and George Woodward, Texas A&M, in the 11th.

'Relieved'

"I feel relieved now that I've been picked," Morucci said. "I was really bummed out when I didn't go in the first six rounds and didn't know what to think today (April 30), but the New Orleans scout called earlier in the morning and said they'd draft me in the seventh round if my name was still on the list."

Saints' General Manager Steve Rosenbloom confirmed the selection shortly before 11 a.m. with a telephone call congratulating Morucci for being selected by his team. Morucci also spoke with the scout after Rosenbloom had talked and later in the day received a call from head coach Dick Nolan.

Pressure off

"I'm so happy the pressure is off — I didn't think I'd be this nervous," Morucci added. "I didn't know what to think after Tuesday (not being selected in the first six rounds).

"Some of the players who were ranked lower than me (on several scouting lists) were picked first and some of the teams who showed the most interest picked running backs earlier and my hope began to fade.

"But now I'm headed for New Orleans and the Superdome. What a place to play!"

First Husky drafted

Morucci is the first BSC griddy to be drafted by a NFL team.

Bob Tucker, who led the league in receiving several years ago while with the New York Giants, is the only other ex-Husky to play in the NFL. Punter Linc Welles played in the now-defunct World Football League.

Tucker is currently a member of the Minnesota Vikings.

Meanwhile, Kurt Pettis, a member of last year's all-Pennsylvania Conference team as a defensive end, is talking with at least three NFL teams about signing as a free agent. He has also been contacted by Canadian Football League teams.

14 records

Morucci, winner of this year's award as the top senior athlete at BSC, holds 14 offensive records, including season and career rushing.

His 1,221 yards on the ground during the 1979 campaign shattered the season mark. He averaged 4.3 yards per carry (283 rushing attempts) and was named to the Kodak Division II All-America team and made the Pennsylvania Conference team for the third consecutive year.

He finished fifth in rushing in the nation, according to the NCAA Division III statistics. In addition to his 1979 rushing statistics which included nine touchdowns, he caught 13 passes for 124 yards and a touchdown and threw a TD pass.

3,535 yards

Mike, who wore No. 35, finished his four-year career with a total of 3,535 yards on the ground and 3,713 total yards. His best effort came against Kutztown in 1977 when he rushed for 207 yards.

He reported to New Orleans for a rookie training camp May 23-25.

Pettis signs

Kurt Pettis, 6-3, 245-pound defensive end for the BSC football team, has signed a one-year contract as a free agent with the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League after attending the Chief's mini-camp.

Kurt expects to complete requirements this summer for his bachelor's degree.

'Susan' discusses impact of television on education

Sesame Street's Susan charmed the graduates and their guests just as she teaches and entertains the youngsters in her television audience.

Dr. Loretta Long, who has lectured throughout the United States since she joined the Children's Television Workshop 11 years ago, talked about the impact of television on children. She questioned if today's schools and colleges are ready for the Sesame Street generation.

The guest speaker at commencement exercises on May 10 is one of the most versatile individuals on the contemporary educational scene. She began her career as a teacher in Detroit after graduation from Western Michigan University. She later moved to New York City and taught in Yonkers while studying drama, voice and dance.

In addition to being an educator, Dr. Long is an accomplished entertainer who has performed here and abroad in shows such as "Guys and Dolls" and "Sweet Charity," in films such as "Cotton Comes to Harlem," "Husbands" and "The Out of Towners," and television programs such as "Soul," "The Dick Cavett Show," and "Today Show." Her work on "Soul" eventually led to her appearance as one of the human hosts on the award-winning "Sesame Street."

She received her doctorate in education from the University of Massachusetts in 1973. Her dissertation was based on a study which examined "Sesame Street" as a model for teaching pre-schoolers via television.

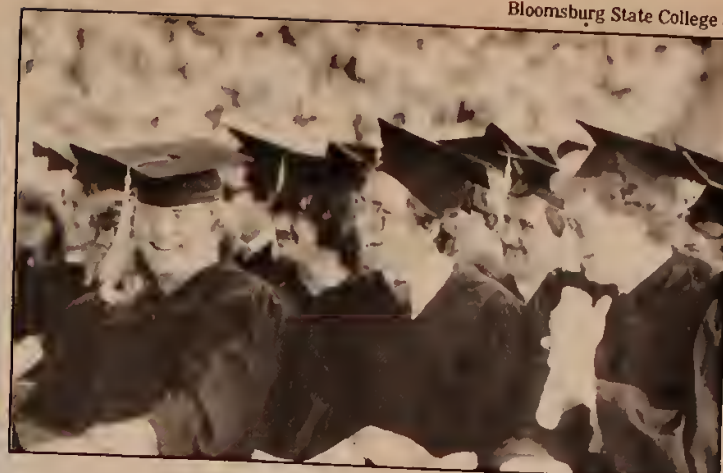

Dr. Long is a sought-after lecturer in the field of children's education and the dynamics of television on the education of young children. She has given lectures, seminars and workshops including topics on the teaching experience in the inner city (Why Didn't Somebody Tell Me), the Sesame Street approach to children's education (Sesame Street: A Space Age Approach to Education, For Space Age Children) and the role of the mother in the education of preschoolers, (Mother the First Teacher: Home the First School).

Alumni fund project

The beauty of Carver Hall has been enhanced by a landscaping project funded by alumni contributions.

Completed the day before Alumni Day, the project is the result of careful planning by a Campus Beautification Committee consisting of college community and alumni representatives.

Eighteen varieties of plants were selected not only for their beauty, but also for their educational value. Some are relatively rare plants for the Bloombsurg area and will be a valuable resource for botany classes.

Using detailed plans and specifications, the nursery contractor planted 141 trees, bushes, and shrubs. In addition, Pachysandra Terminalis was planted to provide a carpeting effect in the landscaped areas within a few years.

Much of the old shrubbery that was removed was planted elsewhere on the campus.

Price tag for the project was $5,100, the low bid submitted by Merrell Nursery, Danville R.D. 3. Four other bids ranged from $5,577 to $9,959.

Initial reaction by returning alumni on Alumni Weekend was very favorable. Many were especially pleased that this project involved Carver Hall, a campus landmark with which all living alumni can identify.

The beauty of the botanical garden effect will become more impressive as the plants mature.

In commenting on the project, President James H. McCormick said, "The Bloombsurg State College Alumni Association has once again made a significant contribution to our Campus Beautification Project. The Carver Hall plantings, as well as previous landscaping projects supported by the Association, will contribute much to our continuing beautification effort. Each year we receive many favorable comments about the attractiveness of the campus and our students often cite this as an influential factor in their selection of Bloombsurg.

"We hope that local alumni and others who are able to visit the campus will take the opportunity to view the recently completed project."

A section of the newly landscaped area will be designated as a memorial to Gertrude Follmer Lowry '01-03, whose family has presented several gifts to the Association in her name.

Other alumni who wish to contribute to this project may still do so by sending their gifts to the Alumni Office with a notation to that effect.

Alumni who served on the committee in 1979-80 were Elizabeth Hubler, Lois C. Bryner, Grace F. Conner, Millard Ludwig, Donald A. Watts, Charles Robbins (director of physical plant), and John Trathen (assistant director of student activities).

Others on the committee were Jennie Carpenter, Frank Davis, Nick Dietterick, Jerrold Griffis, Elton Hunsinger, Percival R. Roberts III, Thomas Manley, Eileen Callahan, Tom Gombert, Karen Chawaga, Stephanie Kaier, Sue Bower, Jill Mahnen, Steve Laubach, Jeff Krill, Debbie Zak and Marshall Giger.

Professor Manley of the biology and allied health sciences department is chairman of the committee and served as consultant for the project. Professor Roberts served as chairman during Professor Manley's sabbatical.

V.P. resigns

Dr. James V. Mitchell, vice president for academic affairs, has accepted appointment as director of the Buros Institute of Mental Measurements at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and editor of the Mental Measurements Yearbook series, recognized internationally as the standard reference source in educational and psychological testing.

Dr. Mitchell, who has been Bloombsurg's academic vice president since July 1977, will take up his new duties in mid-August. His resignation, effective August 18, was submitted to the college Board of Trustees' June meeting.

The Buros Institute was founded by the late Dr. Oscar Krisen Buros, who began his work in the field of educational and psychological testing in the late 1920s. He published the first Mental Measurements Yearbook in 1938 and completed the eighth edition of the series just prior to his death in 1978. Dr. Mitchell's selection as director, following relocation of the Buros Institute to the University of Nebraska, culminates a search that was begun at the time of the founder's death.

"Dr. Mitchell's appointment for this prestigious position is a well-deserved honor," BSC President McCormick said. "Bloombsurg State College is justifiably proud to have our academic vice president selected to carry on the important work of the late Dr. Buros. In a recent issue of the American Psychologist, the Mental Measurements Yearbook series was described as 'an institution in psychology, used by students, teachers, and practitioners throughout the world.'"

"During the nearly three years Dr. Mitchell has been at Bloombsurg he has demonstrated his commitment to quality in our academic programs. He has encouraged scholarly growth and professional development of faculty, has worked actively to support efforts to improve the quality of teaching, and has expanded the college's activities in research and public service. He has made a substantial contribution to the academic progress Bloombsurg has made in the closing years of the 70s."

Interim V.P.

Dr. Barrett W. Benson, professor of chemistry at Bloombsurg State College since 1967, has been appointed interim vice president for academic affairs.

Dr. Benson will succeed Dr. James V. Mitchell, who has resigned to take a position as director of the Buros Institute of Mental Measurements at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Dr. Benson will assume his new duties July 26, and will serve for one year while a college-wide committee conducts a search to fill the position on a permanent basis.

Dr. Benson joined the Bloombsurg State College faculty as an associate professor of chemistry after serving two years on the faculty of Fresno California State College. In 1972 he was promoted to the rank of full professor, and from 1972 to 1977 he served as chairman of the department of chemistry. In addition to his teaching assignments in organic and bio-organic chemistry, he has directed a number of undergraduate student research projects.

A native of Brattleboro, Vt., he received his elementary education in South Londonderry, Vt. and was graduated from Chester High School, Chester, Vt. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Middlebury College and earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree in organic chemistry at the University of Vermont.

Executive in residence

The Appalachian Marketing Club of BSC hosted an executive in residence on April 15. It is the third year for the program, held in cooperation with the School of Business and the Alumni Association.

The program provides an opportunity for a BSC alumnus who has excelled in marketing to return to campus to share his ideas and experience with students, often in one-to-one situations.

This year's alumnus in residence was Joseph A. Rado '63. He is a sales representative for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in the Shamokin area. His subject was "How to Succeed in Sales."

Third World banquet

The Third World Cultural Society held its annual banquet on Friday, April 11, at the Holiday Inn, Danville. The annual affair is usually held in the spring semester as a celebration and close of the society's activities for the year.

It is a time to recognize members of the organization for their contributions in bringing the objectives set by the organization to fruition. The idea for hosting the banquet at the Holiday Inn came about to interest more support. The assumption proved to be successful, for the attendance was in excess of 75 people.

The evening was highlighted by the Reverend Dr. O. Hugh Stout's keynote address focusing on individual achievement and goal setting. The evening's program also included performances by two students. La'tonya Johnson sang, "If you believe," and Regina Williams shared with the audience an eloquent delivery of self-composed poetry.

Recipients of the Third World Cultural Society's Outstanding Achievement Awards were Amanda Cowan, Shenneth Downie, Diane Leslie, Ricardo Youngblood, Joycelyn James, Eric Jenkins, Bryan Key, Marsha Jones and Robyn Liggins.

Irvin Wright, the advisor, was given an award for guidance and leadership, and Byron Barksdale, president of the Third World Cultural Society, was honored with a special award for his leadership and service to the organization. The awards were presented by Dr. Jesse A. Bryan.

The Third World Cultural Society also honored alumni who were among the many attendants: Tolland Taylor, Keith Lawson, and Wayne Whitaker.

The banquet's festivities culminated with a superb performance by "Cysm," a band from Philadelphia.

More legislative volunteers needed

In quiet, yet effective ways, BSC alumni have been helping their Alma Mater by telling legislators that alumni support legislation that will help the college.

The effort costs little or nothing, but it's harder than writing a check because it requires another precious commodity — time.

That time and effort demonstrates to legislators that BSC alumni care about the continued success of the College. That concern shows that BSC alumni want the College not only to SURVIVE the challenges of the 1980s and 1990s, but to EXCEL.

To date, about 155 alumni have responded to the call for volunteers that went out in March. That is a very small percentage of our 24,000 living alumni, but it is a start.

The volunteers live in 67 of the state's 203 legislative districts. Our goal is to have at least one volunteer in each district.

The most pressing need is for alumni to show their support for the Governor's Capital Budget, which includes about $10 million for BSC projects. Over $6.4 million is earmarked for the Human Resources Center, a classroom building which would include facilities for the relatively new department of nursing.

We salute the following alumni who have volunteered thus far:

Gil Gockley keynote speaker at honors convocation

Over 250 Bloomsburg State College students, former college employees and other officials were honored at the Eleventh Annual Awards Convocation held April 27, in Haas Center for the Arts.

Dr. Gil Gockley, a 1966 alumnus, delivered the keynote address to approximately 800 persons attending the convocation and the reception afterwards in Scranton Commons. During his undergraduate years, Dr. Gockley attended a similar affair when he distinguished himself as an outstanding student leader. Among other activities, he was elected president of the Community Government Association and received the college's Service Key Award, as well as being selected for inclusion in the 1966 publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

In speaking on his theme, "A Journey Towards Self Fulfillment," Dr. Gockley stated that there is a need for all of us to prepare ourselves for the rapidly changing society. He pointed out that the students' knowledge wasn't in question, for they had received a solid education at BSC.

"There is a need for individuals today to prepare for the technological world and the multiple life forces which are forced upon us and our loved ones," he said. He continued by sharing his experiences over the past 12 years in facilitating educational and personal growth groups. "It all boils down to the fact we need to focus on whole persons and their preparation for living," he commented.

In concluding, he indicated the need for one to find his own distinctiveness or own self worth. Also to take time to appreciate what someone had clearly stated, "There is a lot of heaven on this earth if only we take the time to look and appreciate life's splendor."

"Be aware of where you are going and have a purpose or goal and live a life full of goodness," he admonished. "Everyone has a need to belong and all have a need for intimacy in this life. Our every act, word, and deed is a seed; therefore, it's up to each of us to harvest the seeds we plant. This can be a very self fulfilling experience."

Certificates presented

Dr. James H. McCormick presented certificates of appreciation to former Board of Trustee members Jeffrey Hunsicker, John Kubeika, Richard Walton and William Zurick as well as to Elton Hunsinger, former administrator of grants; Dorothy Thomas, Saga employee; Dr. Richard Wolfe, dean of Extended Studies, who is leaving for another position; and Donald Watts, retired Alumni Association executive director. Dr. McCormick also presented the Senior Award, given for excellence in academic achievement and leadership, to Deborah Kospiak, Bethlehem.

State Representative Ted Stuban presented a House of Representatives Citation honoring the College community to CGA president Willard Bradley. The latter, in turn, gave Stuban a citation of appreciation from the college.

'Early bird' awards

The invitations to participate in the 1980 Fund Drive were barely in the mail when the first four contributions arrived.

This year's "early bird" awards go to Ann Skladany Mergo '30 of Plymouth, Bertine Prosser '27 and Thelma Prosser Cooper '27 of Peckville, and Letha Crispell Schenck '34 of Noxen.

The appeal letters were mailed in Wilkes-Barre on April 8, and the early gifts arrived at Carver Hall on April 10.

A number of "special gifts" in response to an advanced mailing had arrived earlier, but the four gifts on April 10 were the first from the general mailing.

Congratulations, ladies, and a special thanks to each of you. We hope all the rest of our alumni will hurry to mail their gifts so they won't get the prize for being the last contributor of 1980.

New alumni chapters born; others on way

Alumni in Pennsylvania and Florida gathered for four club meetings in March and April. The meetings were held in Boca Raton and St. Petersburg, Florida, and in Reading and Philadelphia.

More than 120 alumni and guests attended one of the four get-togethers. It was the 50th anniversary meeting for the Philadelphia chapter, while the two Florida meetings were firsts. The Reading affair was the third for that area.

Boca Raton

The South Florida alumni chapter met on March 27 in Boca Raton. Dr. Frank S. Davis, assistant vice president for administration at BSC, was vacationing in Florida at the time and represented the College and the Alumni Association.

The charter luncheon was held at the Boca Tecca Country Club Le Grand Chalet.

Charter members in attendance were Nellie Papciak Turkewicz '17 and guest Evelyn Howes, Gladys Richards Kleckner '25, F.A. Garrity '28-'36 and wife Betty, Jimmie Williams '28 and wife Jennie, Isabel Chelosky Hester '29 and husband Bill, Dorothy Chelosky Janowski '35-'42 and husband Leonard, M. Charlene Margie Dean '42, Michael Deveraux '69, Debra Deveraux '73, and Kenneth Bolinsky '78.

"Present in spirit" were Ethel Price Richards '28, Marilyn Sailer Jackson '45, and Ida Jane Shippey Madi '42.

The following report was received from the group:

"The luncheon proved to be excellent and the intimate gathering provided a fertile atmosphere for the 'did you know?' 'do you remember when?' and 'have you heard from or seen?' to the point where it was questionable whether we would ever finish the meal and get to the business at hand.

"We did, however, get the meeting underway with the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by a moment of silent meditation in deference to those alumni who could not be with us and to the American hostages in Iran and Colombia.

"The temporary chairman briefly pointed out the fact that over 300 BSC alumni are listed as permanent or visiting residents of Florida, and of that number, approximately 130 are located in South Florida.

"Dr. Davis projected an interesting program of slides contrasting the physical features of our modern college with those of yesteryear, intermixing scenes of brick and mortar with unexpected flashes of denizens of the former men's dormitory in old North Hall; the incredibly spartan dress and demeanor of scholastic and social groups, an Amazonian tableau of "B" girls; and the macho fierceness and dogged determination projected by those valiant athletic defenders of the honor of the Maroon and Gold.

"Prizes were then awarded undoubtedly as an antidote to the soul searching, emotionally exhausting experience occasioned by that visual journey into our distant past.

"Kenneth Bolinsky '78, on behalf of Dr. William Decker, director of the BSC concert choir, presented an outline of proposed plans to bring the choir to Florida on their spring tour in late February or early March of 1981. He requested our help in securing dates and locations and housing for the choir.

"Dr. Davis then presented the South Florida BSC Alumni plaque to F.A. Garrity for safekeeping until the 1981 affair. Red immediately 'volunteered' (army style) the alumni present as the organization committee for the 1981 meeting.

"At this juncture, Nellie Papciak Turkewicz '17 amazed us with a memorized poetic rendition of the Books of the Old Testament from Genesis to the Song of Solomon, without pause or prompting.

"We closed this most enjoyable 'famous first' occasion with a heart-felt vocal rendition of the old Alma Mater, 'Far Above the River Winding.' "

St. Petersburg

Two days after the meeting in Boca Raton, the West Florida chapter met in St. Petersburg. Dr. Davis again represented the College and the Alumni Association.

Alumni who attended were Paul M. Trembley '15, Myrtle Dent Trembley '20, Elizabeth Davison Hoffner '25, Winifred Flaherty Kraus '25, Grace Frantz Fry '28, Marjorie Klein Perrotti '28, Elizabeth Laubach Schechterly '29, Alberta Williams

Green '29, Clarence L. Hunsicker '32, Russell F. Miller '32, John A. Early '33-'67, Sarah Lentz Vance '34, Virginia Burke Traupane '39, Philip E. Traupane '39, Marion Wallace States '43, James J. Dormer '48, Marilyn Lundy Sharbaugh '52, Ellen Snyder Wendel '62, Richard E. Wendel '62 and Margaret Berhalter Blawn '64.

Philadelphia

This was a special year for the Philadelphia chapter of BSC alumni — the 50th anniversary of its organization. This group of dedicated and loyal alumni, which once met monthly, still holds four or five meetings a year.

The anniversary was observed at the spring luncheon on April 12 at Wanamaker's in Philadelphia. Guests of the chapter were Dr. James H. McCormick, president of the college, and Doug Hippenstiel, director of alumni affairs.

Alumni in attendance were Charlotte Fetter Coulston '23, Dorothy C. Schmidt '29-'34, Susan Schalls '78, Margaret Butler Minner '23, Harold Readler '27, Esther Dagnell '34, Betty Burnham Rosell '45, Sadie Mayernick '27, Orval C. Patsgrove '31, Marie Morgan '54, Connie Gobora '52, Harry Gobora '50 and Emily Nichol Gledhill '12.

Guests were Viola Readler, Cecil Via, Bertha Hand, Edna B. May, Ann Bomberger, Catherine Evans, Mary Jane Rudloff, Helen Shaffer, Peg Wilson, Theresa Testi, Antoinetta Colosimo and Jim Gledhill.

Almost all of the guests have some connection with BSC graduates — mothers, sisters or good friends — and have attended the meetings regularly through the years.

The chapter once had several hundred members and in 1932 drew about 400 to a black tie affair at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Members of the group have remained very close through the years. Their June meeting was a picnic at the home of the president, Mrs. Coutston, in Spring City. In July they will go to Orval Palsgrove's summer home at the Maryland shore.

Pennsylvania Dutch

The third annual dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Dutch chapter was held on April 18 in Reading.

Alumni and guests were Jane Moyer Prutzman '74, Steven Prutzman, Francis Sell '35, Mabel Sell, John W. Thomas '47, Louise Seaman Thomas '42, Donald Hawthorne Jr. '63, Richard Faust '64, Barbara Nicholls Faust '65, Jean Ackerman Moyer '44, Jeryl Moyer, David Robaton, Marjorie Bentz Robaton '60, Patricia Biehl Cranford '63, Dawn Osman Trewella '42, Robert Trewella, James Riefenstahl '69, Bonne Beaver Riefenstahl '70, Lee Bierly '43 (V-12 Program), Josephine Bierly, Michael Mehle '67, Elaine Brumbaugh Mehle '67, Robert Wolf '70, Jean Wolf, Gene Rinehimer '62, Nikki Rinehimer '60, James L. Marks '37, Kathy Geiger '77, Ruth Ebright Winters '43, Edward Kern '67, and Sandra Burkhart Kern '67.

Guests from Bloomsburg were Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Watts, Dr. and Mrs. C. Stuart Edwards, and Doug Hippenstiel.

Officers of the chapter are Don Hawthorne '63, president; Mike Mehle '67, vice president; Jane Prutzman '74, secretary; and Sandy Kern '67, treasurer.

Phoenix cancelled

The meeting of the Arizona club, which was scheduled for April 19, in Phoenix, was cancelled after only a few alumni indicated they would be able to attend.

Esther Lloyd Bound '28 of Peoria has served as coordinator for the Phoenix meeting. An attempt will be made to hold a meeting next spring.

Pending

Organization of alumni clubs in the Baltimore and Harrisburg areas is still pending. Each chapter had planned to meet in May, but the affairs were postponed.

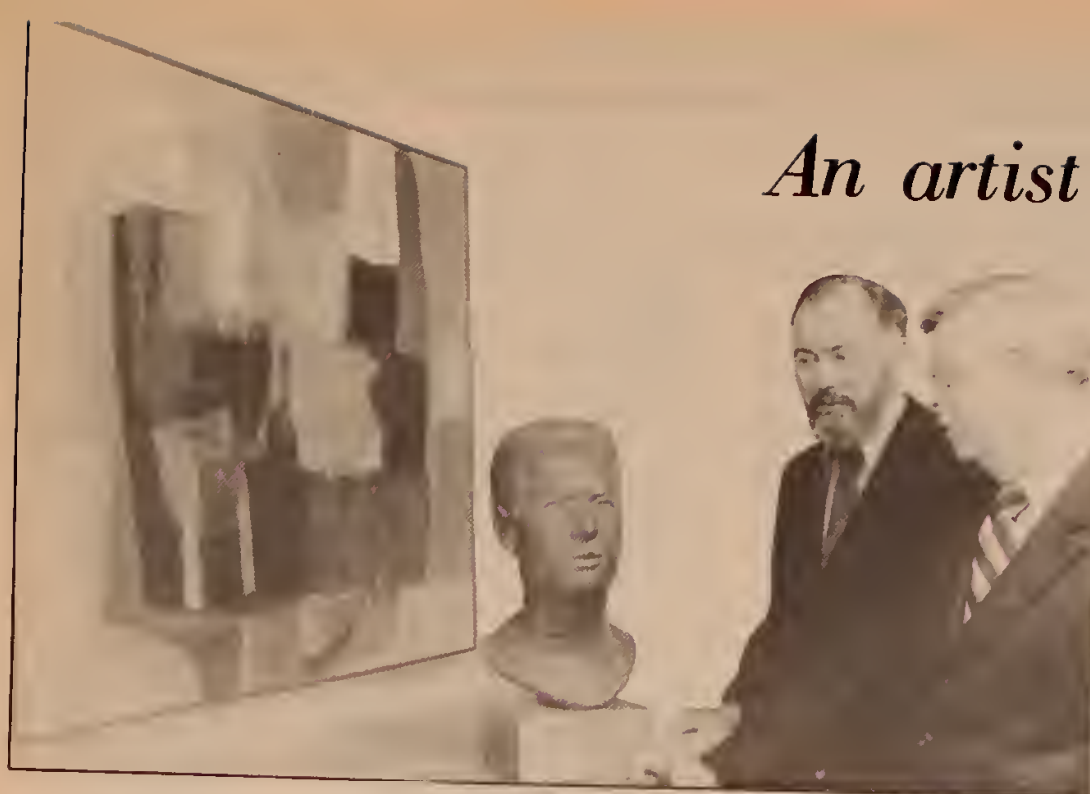

Coordinators are Dorothy Wilkes Miller '66 in the Baltimore area and Charles Bender '75 in the Harrisburg area.

Dick Lloyd '62, a member of the alumni board of directors, is coordinating plans for organizing alumni in New Jersey.

About 25 alumni and spouses have indicated an interest in having lunch with President and Mrs. McCormick at Williamsburg, Va., on Nov. 15. The McCormicks will be participating in a conference in Williamsburg.

Details of this meeting will be forthcoming.

An artist's gift

The timing of the gift was perfect. Just two days before Alumni Day, the portrait bust in bronze by the late Ruth Hutton Ancker arrived on campus to become part of the college's permanent art collection.

Before her death in August 1979, Mrs. Ancker had decided that her Alma Mater should have the portrait bust of the well-known contemporary Italian painter Danilo Bergamo.

The bust and other memorabilia of the sculptress were brought to Bloomsburg by her husband, W. Mason Ancker of Alexandria, Va. After exhibition on Alumni Day, the bust was placed on display in the Anruss Library.

She felt close to BSC

In a letter to Dr. Percival R. Roberts III, chairman of the art department, Mr. Ancker noted that it was his wife's intention for many years to leave a representative piece of her work to the college.

"She felt very close to the school: the first building was built on six acres donated for that purpose by her Snyder forebears in 1838, and at least one representative of each generation of Snyders, Neals and Huttons has studied there since."

Mr. Ancker went on to explain the background of the sculpture:

"Since several members of her family had given BSC paintings by Danilo Bergamo, and since he has now become recognized as Italy's leading avant-garde painter, she thought that a portrait bust that she did of him (one of her best works) would be an appropriate gift.

"Towards the end of 1978, the Italian government made a documentary film of Bergamo which was shown over all of the state-owned television stations and has been available to museums and galleries all over Europe. In other words, he's a Big Shot now.

"There's an interesting story about the portrait bust. Bergamo's father was killed or disappeared in the earliest days of Italy's entrance into World War II, and after the war Bergamo's mother married a British soldier named Brown.

"It appears that Brown's civilian job was and is tennis pro for the Royal Family, and he is quartered at 'Broadlands,' the home of the late Lord Mountbatten. Bergamo's mother is apparently an excellent horse woman, and Queen Elizabeth frequently goes to Broadlands to ride over the weekends because of its excellent bridle paths.

"Of course the women talk, and Mrs. Brown is very proud of Bergamo. She commissioned Ruth to do a portrait bust of him, providing she could get permission to have it erected in the rose garden at Broadlands.

"The Queen said she thought that could be arranged, and it was. Only two bronze casts were made since Micillucci in Pistoia accidentally destroyed the mold after the second cast, so you will be getting the only one other than the one in Broadlands."

Bloomsburg native

Born in Bloomsburg, Mrs. Ancker graduated from BSC in 1918 and then studied at the Parson's School of Design in New York. She became a successful fashion illustrator and designer and was sent to Paris by Women's Wear and other publications for several years in the late 1920s and mid-1930s.

Tiring of what she believed to be the "emptiness" of the fashion world, she went back to college and earned a degree from Columbia University in 1941. She then taught art at Cooper Union and Pratt Institute in New York and the Universities of Alabama and Cincinnati, and took graduate studies at the University of New Mexico and the Cincinnati Art Academy.

She studied sculpture under the late Oronzio Maldarelli in New York and subsequently had 11 solo exhibitions of her sculpture, including two in New York and one each in Paris and Rome.

Pennsylvania honored her with the first solo sculpture exhibition ever given in the State Fine Arts Museum in Harrisburg.

She received many commissions, and her work is in a number of private and public collections here and abroad. Museum Pieces, Inc. has produced and sold hundreds of Mrs. Ancker's sculptures throughout the country.

She belonged to the National Society of Arts and Letters and the Philadelphia Art Academy and was a life honorary member of Artist Equity.

The BSC Alumni Association honored Mrs. Ancker in 1967 by presenting her with a Distinguished Service Award.

1979 was best year for job hunting since 1973

BSC graduates found job hunting last year the best since 1973. The annual report of Thomas A. Davies, director of career development and placement, lists 84.09 percent of the 1979 graduates as currently employed, in graduate school, or in military service. Last year the placement percentage was 80.3 and in 1973 it was 85.6.

Of the 1136 who received baccalaureate degrees in the three 1979 commencement convocations, 231 have teaching positions and 570 are employed in other fields. There are 116 full-time graduate students, and 19 are in military service. Twenty three are listed as not available for employment and 34 could not be located. The report lists 143 as under-employed or still seeking jobs.

"The steady improvement in BSC's placement rate over the past three years — from 69.32 in 1976 to 84.09 percent this year — reflects Bloomsburg's continuing effort to respond to student needs and interests," Davies said. "The general improvement in the job market over those three years has been a strong factor, of course, but Bloomsburg's shift of emphasis into areas of higher employment opportunities gives our graduates a better chance in that job market. Prospective employers continue to respect the quality of our academic and support programs."

Graduates in the health services field had the highest placement rate, 98.18 percent for the 56 students who earned Bachelor of Science degrees in nursing, 100 percent for those who received degrees in public school nursing and dental hygiene, and 95.45 percent for medical technology. In special education the percentage is 94.52 and in communication disorders, 91.42.

Business administration had the largest number of graduates, 393, with a placement rate of 87.97 percent, an increase over last year. The placement percentage for business education's 58 graduates is 85.96, a drop from a year ago. For the 259 who received degrees in early childhood, elementary and secondary education, the placement percentage was 78.65, an increase of three percentage points over last year.

The 231 arts and sciences graduates, with a percentage of 73.99, fared better in the job market than their counterparts a year ago when 68.75 percent were placed.

Davies pointed out that if the 34 who could not be located for employment information were excluded from the report, the overall placement rate would be 2.65 percentage points higher. He said also that employment totals do not include graduates who are working in jobs not related to their college preparation.

We've moved to Carver

Your Alumni Office is now located in Carver Hall, one of the few remaining buildings on campus with which ALL living alumni can identify.

President McCormick has been committed to providing space in Carver Hall for alumni facilities because of the strong association between this historic structure and all alumni, regardless of when they attended classes at Bloomsburg.

The Alumni Office might better be called the Alumni Service Center, for its function is to serve alumni and the college. It serves by providing information, by planning Alumni Day and Homecoming activities, by assisting with class reunions, by funding projects and programs to benefit the college, using contributions from alumni.

Feel free to telephone or write to the Alumni Office if you need information about fellow alumni or the college. And don't return to campus without stopping at the Alumni Office in Carver Hall to say hello.

Hundreds return

Alumni Weekend 1980 attracted several hundred graduates back to Bloomsburg for class reunions and the annual meeting of the Alumni Association.

Despite the gasoline situation and the state of the economy, alumni came from as far as California to meet old friends and to reminisce about their days at Bloomsburg.

It was a happy time as former classmates recognized each other after many years, as former roommates hugged each other and as alumni of all ages relived their college years.

The oldest graduate in attendance was Vera Hemingway Housenick, class of 1905, a Bloomsburg resident who served as secretary of the Alumni Association for many years.

50-year class honored

Festivities began on Friday evening, April 25, as the Association hosted the Class of 1930 at a dinner in Scranton Commons. Nearly 60 members of the class of 1930 attended the banquet or the luncheon on Saturday.

Five members of the class were instrumental in planning the banquet: Dr. and Mrs. Luther Bitler, Millville; Mabel Biggar, Muncy; Cyril Stiner, Catawissa; and Harold Hidlay, Bloomsburg.

Mrs. Bitler (Margaret Swartz) served as mistress of ceremony for the dinner which was attended by 122 alumni and guests.

M. Augusta Foose, another class member, gave the invocation and led a memorial service.

Harold Hidlay led the group singing, accompanied at the piano by Howard Fenstermaker '12, retired faculty member and past president of the Alumni Association.

Greeting the alumni were Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president emeritus, and Boyd F. Buckingham '43, vice president for administration, who represented President McCormick, who was ill.

Movies from 1930 and from the 25th class reunion in 1955, along with slides of the class and the college, were shown by Doug Hippenstiel, director of alumni affairs.

D.S.A. awards

Highlight of the luncheon on Saturday was the presentation of the Distinguished Service Award to Donald Albert Watts '37 and J. Harrison Morson Jr. '56.

The two men were the 68th and 69th recipients of the award created in 1948 to honor members of the association for their loyalty to their Alma Mater and for their professional and personal accomplishments.

The inscription on Mr. Watts' award is as follows:

"Leaving the 'Friendly College on the Hill' with the Class of 1937, Mr. Watts embarked upon a career in education which saw him rise from teacher in a small school in rural Pennsylvania to the superintendency of a large regional school district in New Jersey.

"He served his country during time of war as an officer in the United States Navy. His view of life was further broadened by a position in industry and by his experience as a private businessman.

"At a time when it would have been easy to retire, Mr. Watts stepped forward to serve the Alumni Association of his Alma Mater as its first full-time executive director.

"Typifying the friendly spirit that characterizes Bloomsburg State College, he was the right person at the right time. He revitalized the Association and set it on a successful course."

Present for the ceremony were Mrs. Watts, their two sons, Donald Jr. and Thomas, and their wives.

The inscription on Mr. Morson's award is as follows:

"As a member of the class of 1956, Mr. Morson used his inherent abilities and talents to excel as a collegiate scholar, musician, athlete and editor. His early career in education included roles as business education teacher, counselor, coach and principal.

"Combining his undergraduate preparation with graduate study and experience, he advanced into higher education as a college administrator. Professionally, he has further distinguished himself by gaining the prestigious office of president of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

"The Alumni Association hereby shows its pride in Mr. Morson by recognizing the honor he has brought to himself and to his Alma Mater."

Morson, a resident of Edison, N.J., was accompanied by his two sons and his sister. Guests at his table were Dr. and Mrs. John A. Hoch, dean emeritus, to whom he paid tribute for their guidance, support and friendship during his years at Bloomsburg.

Making the presentations were Clayton H. Hinkel '40, a past recipient of the award who is the senior member of the BSC faculty and secretary of the Alumni Association.

Members of the selection committee were Betty Fisher '48, Dr. Frank J. Furgele '52, Elizabeth H. Hubler '31, Editha Eut Adams '24, Oliver H. Krapf '32 and Clayton H. Hinkel '40.

During the luncheon, Vincent La Ruffa, president of the Class of 1980, presented a check for $500 to the Association. The class was welcomed into membership by President Millard Ludwig.

A special tribute to Bloomsburg men and women who sacrificed their lives in World War II, written by John F. Magill, Jr. '43, was read by Doug Hippenstiel. Dr. Magill was unable to attend the luncheon because of an unexpected change of plans.

Speaking briefly were Dr. Andruss and Mr. Buckingham, again representing President McCormick.

Elected directors of the Association were Stephen A. Andrejack '74, Mechanicsburg; Lois C. Bryner '44, Danville; Captain Curtis R. English '56, Springfield, Va.; Editha Eut Adams '24, Bloomsburg; Ronald W. Cranford '63, Gilbertsville; M. Jacqueline Feddock '72, New York City; Elizabeth H. Hubler '31, Gordon; Harold H. Hidlay '30, Bloomsburg; Augustus Tibbs '58, Norristown; and Col. Elwood M. Wagner '43, State College.

Re-elected as officers were Millard Ludwig '48, president; John W. Thomas '47, vice president; Clayton H. Hinkel '40, secretary; and John J. Trathen '68, treasurer.

Class reunions

Also meeting in reunion, in addition to the Class of 1930, were the classes of 1935, 1940 and 1955.

William I. Reed of Bloomsburg coorminated the 1935 reunion, which included smorgasbord at the Hotel Magee on Friday evening.

The Class of 1940 also held its dinner at the Hotel Magee. Clayton H. Hinkel was the coordinator.

The Class of 1955 reunion, coordinated by Dr. Thomas Persing of Pennsburg, was held at the Bloomsburg Elks Home.

Several fraternities and sororities also held special events in conjunction with Alumni Weekend.

Distinguished Service Award: J. Harrison Morson

J. Harrison Morson '56 is the first Black to be elected president in the 93-year history of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. He is the only representative of a two-year college to hold that office.

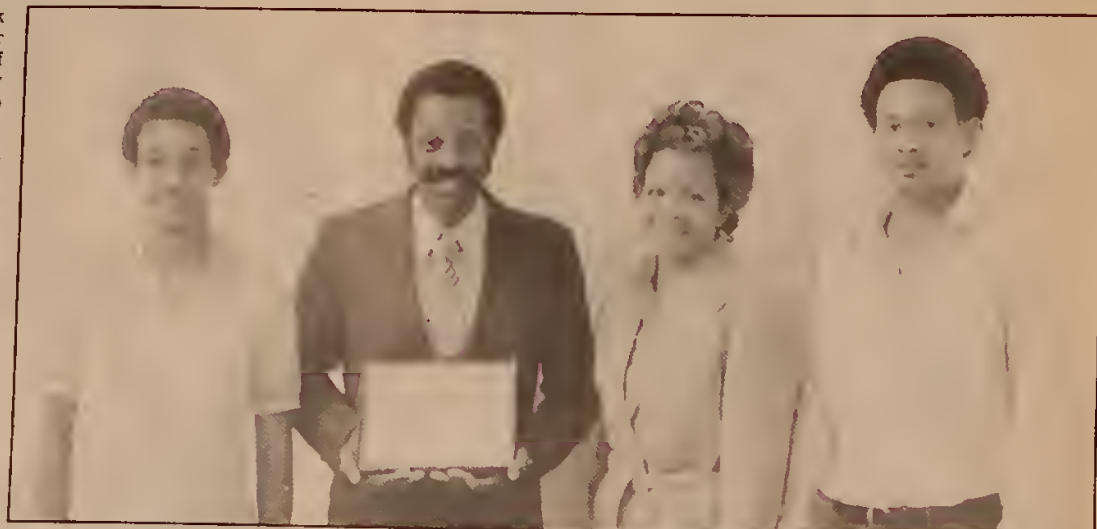

The Middle States Association is a non-profit, non-governmental association of representatives from educational institutions in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands. Its purpose is to maintain and advance the quality of education in colleges, secondary and elementary schools through periodic evaluations and accreditations.

Its membership includes 470 colleges and universities and 1,633 secondary schools, as of December 1979.

A member of the association's board of trustees, Mr. Morson has been affiliated with the organization since 1971 and has served as chairman of its committee on school and college relations. In addition, he has been a member of four higher institution evaluation teams, serving as chairman on one occasion. He has also served as second and first vice president.

In assuming the presidency, Mr. Morson said he feels that a major emphasis during his term should be on maintaining the "integrity of our evaluations and accreditations. In a time when intervention by federal and state governments in the educational arena is becoming more and more a possibility, we must be sure to do our job in the best possible way.

"I believe it is critical that evaluations be carried out by the voluntary sector, by people who are actually in the business of education, by those who live with it day-today and therefore know it best," Morson said.

"The responsibility for strengthening the image and promulgating the philosophy of voluntary accreditation rests squarely on our shoulders."

Mr. Morson is dean of student affairs at Union College in Cranford, N.J. He has been associated with that college since 1969, when he was appointed director of student activities and assistant to the dean of the college. He was named dean of students in 1970.

A native of Bryn Mawr, he graduated from Radnor High School in Wayne, Pa., where he compiled an excellent record as a student leader, scholar, athlete and musician.

High School in Roselle, N.J., where he taught business education, coached, and later served as a guidance counselor and principal.

Dean Morson served in the New Jersey Army National Guard from 1957 to 1960 and was honorably discharged from reserve status in the U.S. Army in 1963.

He is the father of two sons, Jeffrey, 17, and Craig, 15.

Distinguished Service Award: Donald Albert Watts

Although any member of the Alumni Association's board of directors would have nominated Don Watts for its Distinguished Service Award, the nomination came from outside the board.

When alumni were invited to submit names for the award, the Philadelphia chapter of BSC alumni decided to nominate Mr. Watts in recognition of his service as first full-time executive director of the Alumni Association.

Only a few members of the Philadelphia chapter had met Mr. Watts, but the entire chapter was impressed by the work he did during his four and a half years as director.

They recognized, along with many other alumni, that he initiated new services, revitalized existing programs and laid the groundwork necessary to achieve future goals of the association. In addition, he demonstrated the kind of loyalty and spirit that has held the Philadelphia chapter together for 50 years.

Millville native

Donald Albert Watts is a native of Millville whose career in education took him to Illinois and New Jersey between the time he left BSC in 1937 and his "first" retirement in 1974.

After receiving his B.S. degree, he earned his master's degree from Bucknell University in 1940.

He taught in Mill City and Watstown, was principal-teacher in Potts Grove, and served as supervising principal at Montandon and at Westmont Hilltop Schools in Johnstown.

From 1960 to 1964, Mr. Watts was superintendent of Liberty-Fremont High School District in Libertyville, Illinois. In 1964 he moved to Harrington Park, N.J., where he was superintendent of the Northern Valley Regional High School District until retiring in 1974.

In addition to his experience as an educator, Mr. Watts served for three years as an officer in the U.S. Navy during World War II (in the South Pacific), was supervisor of industrial statistics for U.S. Rubber Company for two years, and was self-employed for seven years.

He has been active in many educational, professional and community organizations over the years.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts are parents of two sons: Donald, a graduate of Bucknell University and the University of Pittsburgh, who resides in Freehold, N.J., and Thomas, a graduate of Transylvania University of Lexington, Kentucky, who lives in Hollywood, Maryland.

New director of grants named

Aurelia T. Smeltz, a former resident of Shamokin now residing in Pittsburgh, has been appointed director of grants at BSC.

Mrs. Smeltz will fill a vacancy left by the retirement of Elton Hunsinger in December. The appointment, effective July 14, was submitted to the trustees by President McCorinick following a nationwide search.

Since February, Mrs. Smeltz has served as municipal grants developer for the Allegheny County department of development. Prior to taking that position she spent two years planning and designing a community-based college program for 47 women engaged in neighborhood volunteer work that would enable them to earn associate arts degrees. The program was implemented in January, 1980, under the academic sponsorship of Duquesne University and with grants funded by the U.S. Office of Education.

From 1975 to 1978 she was administrator/grants coordinator for the Pennsylvania Ethnic Heritage Studies Center at the University of Pittsburgh. For six years prior to 1975 she was grants coordinator in the vice chancellor's office of public affairs at the University of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Smeltz began her career as a reporter on the staff of the Shamokin News Dispatch from 1953 to 1961. Her work in journalism continued until 1969, and she held positions in Pittsburgh as editor of the East Liberty Tribune, associate editor of Cycles magazine, and public relations editor for Dravo Corporation.

She also served two years as research associate in the department of planning at Duquesne University.

A graduate of Shamokin High School, she earned a bachelor of arts degree in sociology at Duquesne University. She is a consultant to the Department of Aging for the state of Illinois, and is one of 32 persons in the nation selected by the U.S. Office of Education to serve as readers for funding proposals.

First master's degree in new field awarded

Margery E. Stone was the first recipient of a Master of Science degree in special education with a curriculum in exceptional persons. She received her degree during commencement exercises in May.

After completing her bachelor's degree at the Pennsylvania State University in 1974, Miss Stone was a house parent at the Grier School in Tyrone and the McIntyre Shelter in Pittsburgh. She has also served as a counselor for the Loysville Youth Development Center and the North Central Secure Treatment Unit located in Danville.

Margery began her studies in the field of exceptional persons in special education and was a graduate assistant in the department of special education. Margery, who is interested in working with delinquents, took the program to get a broader background in all exceptionalities because delinquents cross the spectrum. She said the program was very helpful and gave her great flexibility, for she was able to focus on behavior disorders in virtually every area. She says she would like to focus on the educational needs of delinquents returning to the community as well as delinquency prevention programs in the early grades.

The Master of Science degree with a curriculum in exceptional persons was inaugurated in January, 1979. The purpose of the degree program is to provide an opportunity for individuals in such fields as physical therapy, occupational therapy, nursing, social work, psychology, and other professional fields to develop new skills in working with exceptional individuals. While this program does not lead to certification, it does give students an opportunity to study those subjects which enable them to understand and work more effectively with exceptional persons. Because this is an initial entry program into the field of exceptional persons, no special academic background is required. While previous experience may be helpful, it is not a requirement for entry into the program. The program assumes that the individual will be entering with a variety of backgrounds and accommodates each student based upon an individual assessment.

Individuals interested in the program should contact Dr. Andrew J. Karpinski, Chairperson, Department of Special Education, or Dr. Charles H. Carlson, Dean, School of Graduate Studies.

Alumna gives $5,000 for new scholarship

Dr. Margaret Bittner Parke '23, whose interest in education is unflagging after a career of more than 50 years in the profession, has given $5,000 to the Alumni Association for the creation of a perpetual scholarship in her name.

The award, which will be presented for the first time in 1981, will tentatively be given to a prospective teacher in elementary or secondary education who has shown some degree of interest and competency in action research in some aspect of teaching English.

Dr. Parke noted that she would like to see the award stimulate teaching and student activity in the direction described by Francis Davis and Robert Parker in "Teaching for Literacy." In that work, the two men discuss the "Bullock Report" of England which grew out of an original report sponsored by Margaret Thatcher, the prime minister, when she was minister of education.

"My interest in this area stems from the fact that Bloomsburg gave me my start in research and English both," Dr. Parke wrote, "and the research was action research before that name had ever been attached."

"That work was then done in what would be considered the sophomore year now. My instructors there steered me in the

A $10,000 gift from the Earl and Sabilla Campbell Trust has been used by the music department to purchase two modular practice rooms and a piano. Checking the practice room placed in Schuylkill Hall are Dr. Richard Stanistaw, chairman of the department; Doug Hippenstiel, director of alumni affairs; and John Couch, a member of the music faculty. The other practice room has been placed in Etwell Hall.

$10,000 gift for music equipment

Students at BSC will benefit from a $10,000 gift from the Earl and Sabilla Campbell Trust. Mrs. Campbell was the former Sabilla Schobert of Bloomsburg, a member of the Class of 1914, then Bloomsburg State Normal School.

The gift was presented to college officials by Walter F. Vorbleski of Berwick, one of four trustees of the estate. It will be used for the purchase of equipment by the music department.

Campbell, a native of Berwick, was owner of the Campbell Music Co., Inc., in Washington, D.C., at the time of his death in 1970. Mrs. Campbell died in August of 1979, at which time the terms of Mr. Campbell's will took effect.

Businessman funds wrestling scholarship

A Bloomsburg area businessman has made an outstanding contribution to the athletic program at BSC by providing a four-year full scholarship to a wrestler.

James LaBar (center) will provide the scholarship for an outstanding high school wrestler to be selected by Head Coach Roger Sanders. The recipient will be a member of next year's freshman class at BSC.

It is interesting to note that Mr. LaBar is not an alumnus of the college—nor has he ever attended a wrestling meet at BSC—but in his travels throughout the country he has encountered people who know where Bloomsburg is because of its wrestling reputation.

He also believes this scholarship will be a worthwhile contribution which will help a young person receive a college education.

Update from the Alumni Office

By DOUG HIPPENSTIEL
Director, Alumni Affairs

I'd like to take this opportunity to report to you on some of the things that have been happening in the Alumni Office, as well as some plans for the future.

...

The first week of August was well-spent, for I attended an institute in alumni administration at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Sponsored by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE), the Institute drew 140 alumni administrators from universities and colleges from all over the United States, Canada and Mexico. Representing alumni associations from the very largest universities to the smallest private colleges, the participants were able to exchange ideas during and between the formal sessions. Many of the ideas can be used at BSC to make our alumni association more vital and dynamic.

During September and October, several alumni in New Jersey served their Alma Mater by representing the college's admissions office at college nights in that state. Helping this year were Glenn B. Lang '74, Kay Nearing '59, Dick Lloyd '62, Diane Danzer Gill '78, Larry K. Vass '78, Lorenzo Tironi '64, Dolores Tironi '63 and Douglas T. Post '79. A training session for the volunteers was held on September 17 at the Somerville Inn. Tom L. Cooper, dean of admissions and records, conducted the training session. Accompanying Cooper were Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean emeritus of the School of Professional Studies (and a former director of admissions at BSC); Byron Barksdale, an intern in the admissions office; and I. By volunteering their time, these alumni extended the capabilities of the admissions office. We hope to extend and expand this program each year.

At their meeting on September 20, the Alumni Board of Directors agreed to earmark $4,000 in the 1981 budget to augment the student work-study program in the alumni office. In effect, this will extend the association's scholarship program while giving the students an opportunity to provide an invaluable service to the alumni association. At present, we have six students working in the office, helping with everything from mailings to preparation of material for The Alumni Quarterly. Without their help, many of our projects would be delayed, if not impossible. We are also establishing a good relationship that will continue long after the students have graduated.

Linda Long of the alumni office staff and I helped to man the college's exhibit at the Bloomsburg Fair in September. During the week we had an opportunity to greet many alumni who returned for the fair, as well as relatives and friends of current students.

...

Elfed (Vid) Jones and Jasper Fritz, both members of the Class of 1930, were quick to point out an error in a recent college publication which stated that the first wrestling team at BSC took to the mats in the early '30s. They both were part of the first team which competed in 1929—and there's a photograph to prove it.

A projects committee, including representatives of the alumni board and the college administration, will be meeting in November to discuss ideas for alumni projects submitted by alumni and the college community. We know there are many worthwhile projects that alumni could support, so it will be difficult to make decisions and establish priorities. The committee will make its recommendations to the full alumni board, and the projects for 1981 will be announced when the 1981 annual giving campaign kicks off in January. This will give alumni a more specific idea of how your money will be used.

We have a date for you to mark on your calendar: July 29 to August 2. That's when the first Alumni Family Vacation College will be held at BSC. Alumni and their families will have an opportunity to spend three or four days living in the dorms and participating in a wide variety of educational and recreational programs for all ages. One of the highlights of the weekend will be the summer musical theater production of the Bloomsburg Players. We're excited about the prospects for a really great weekend, and we hope a large number of alumni will respond to this opportunity for a low-cost, fun-filled vacation with the family at BSC. You will receive more details early in 1981.

Since mid-October, the work of the alumni office staff has been punctuated by hammers and saws. Carpenters have begun renovations in Carver Hall which will result in the creation of an Alumni Reception Room.

Moving to Carver Hall in September 1979, the alumni office became part of the oldest and best-known landmark on campus. Some alumni will remember the alumni area of Carver as a classroom, while others will recall visits to the business office when it was located there. But regardless of interior changes, the famous building at the top of College Hill is remembered by all 26,000 living alumni.

Although plans for the Alumni Reception Room have not been finalized, we expect the room to be renovated and furnished to reflect the warmth, quality and tradition of Bloomsburg State College. You will hear a great deal more about YOUR alumni room as the project moves toward completion.

Alumni were part of the college-wide effort that has moved the dream of a much-needed classroom building for BSC closer to reality. Before the General Assembly recessed for the General Election, the House of Representatives amended a bill for a new dental school at Temple University to include the BSC project. The vote was 175-0 to amend. The bill is now in the Senate Appropriations Committee which will hopefully report it to the full Senate in the few remaining work days left in this session. It is critical that BSC alumni all over the state contact their state senators to urge "yes" votes on House Bill 2920.

A college-effort to win support for the entire Governor's Capital Budget is also continuing because it includes about $4 million for other projects at the college, most of them of a maintenance nature.

If you would like more information about how you can help, please call me.

As you read this in The Quarterly, we will be in the process of conducting our 1980 national phonathon. Volunteers from 20 student organizations will be calling alumni all over the United States in an effort to increase our active membership to at least 5,000 and to push the 1980 fund goal well over the $50,000 mark.

The alumni board, at its September 20 meeting, voted to give 1981 membership cards to anyone who makes a contribution after October 1 of this year. In effect, that makes them an "early bird" for 1981, rather than a two or three-month member in 1980.

One idea I picked up at the institute in Chapel Hill was that of dedicating a new book in the library to an alumnus or alumna when his or her death is reported to the alumni office. The alumni board liked the idea, so we are in the process of designing and printing handsome bookplates for this purpose. The families of the deceased alumni will be informed of the dedications. We hope to start this program with all alumni who died during 1980 (that we are aware of).

...

Another idea that we may incorporate in the 1981 fund drive is the creation of a Gold Medal Society, which would include all contributing alumni who have reached their 50th year since graduation, or beyond. More details on that later.

...

Sometime in November there will be a mailing from the alumni office which will include information about alumni travel programs for 1981. To date, we know it will include a trip to the music festival of Salzburg, Austria, and less expensive "guaranteed vacation bargains" to the Bahamas, Disneyworld, Ft. Lauderdale/Daytona Beach, and Aruba.

...

In an effort to boost attendance on Alumni Day—and to make the day more rewarding—the alumni board has approved the idea of planning seminars and/or other interesting programs in the morning and afternoon.

...

The alumni board is exploring the possibility of offering a group insurance program as an additional service to alumni. Proposals from four national firms who specialize in alumni insurance programs will be considered by a committee of the board.

...

The alumni board has recommended to the college board of trustees that the entire athletic complex on the upper campus be designated as Mt. Olympus. This would carry on a tradition begun early in this century when the football field—located where Columbia Hall stands today—was dubbed "Mt. Olympus." When the gridiron was located on the present site of Bakeless Center and Andrus Library, it retained that name. The interruption in tradition came when the athletic complex was moved to the upper campus. A committee will be appointed by the chairman of the board of trustees to consider this recommendation, as well as names for other unnamed facilities on campus.

The alumni board has accepted a recommendation by the director that alumni be recognized in some special way when their lifetime giving to the Alumni Association reaches the $1,000 plateau. Details for the recognition, which may be on an individual basis, are yet to be completed.

...

The alumni office has no addresses for about 3,000 alumni, but we're working on this problem. Since early summer we have been able to find about 360 "lost" alumni by contacting parents. Later this year we plan to print a list of the "unknowns" for circulation to all alumni. Some of your friends, neighbors and colleagues will probably be on that list. We're hoping you can help us wipe out this long list of alumni with whom we've lost touch.

Speaking of addresses, the alumni office has sent 135,000 pieces of bulk mail since March, representing an expense of about $4,500. That figure does not include ANY mail that was sent first class.

...

To alumni all over the country: You can help us in a very important way by sending us your old telephone directory when you get your new one. This will help us immensely in preparing for the 1981 phonathon.

...

Betty LeVan, our full-time association secretary, has some encouraging figures on the 1980 fund drive. As of Friday, October 24, pledges and contributions totalled $48,750 and the number of contributors topped the 2,900 mark. On November 9 of last year, $36,574 had been contributed by 1,380 persons.

...

The next meeting of the alumni board of directors will be held in the alumni office in Carver Hall on Saturday, December 6. All members of the association are invited to attend.

Our collection of BSC yearbooks in the Alumni Office was enriched recently when an alumna and the widow of an alumnus donated two early editions.

Lillian Zimmerman '15 visited the office just before returning to Florida for the winter and asked if we would like to have her 1915 yearbook. We gratefully accepted her gift, especially since that was the first year there was a yearbook. It was called "The Onward" in that first year.

About the same time, Mrs. A.C. Morgan of Berwick sent us her husband's copy of the 1917 "Obliter." We had had no copy of that yearbook before Mrs. Morgan's thoughtful gift.

If you or members of your family have any BSC yearbooks that are no longer wanted, please contact the Alumni Office. We appreciate receiving them for our collection, even if they are duplicates.

50th anniversary of business education program

September marked the beginning of the fiftieth year of business education at BSC. Students, alumni, and faculty of Bloomsburg are proud of the excellent training provided for prospective business teachers and of the accomplishments of the graduates of its programs.

The Department of Business Education began in the fall of 1930 when the state Department of Public Instruction designated the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, as an institution where commercial teachers for high schools of the Commonwealth would be trained. The college thus became, according to President Francis B. Haas, the first and only institution of its type in the eastern part of Pennsylvania to offer a program of education designed to prepare commercial teachers.

At Dr. Haas' request, Harvey A. Andruss accepted the position of director of Commercial Teacher Training. The new Commercial Teacher Training Course was inaugurated under the guidance of Dr. Andruss on September 2, 1930, with the first classes held in Noetting Hall. With two faculty members, Dr. Andruss and Miss Margaret Hoke, and less than fifty students in the department, many business-oriented activities were held including the sponsorship of the first Commercial Contest held on May 15, 1931.

Today, the Department of Business Education is one of two departments within the School of Business. Dr. Emory W. Rarig Jr. is dean of the School of Business (approximate enrollment 2,000) which includes the Department of Business Administration and the Department of Business Education/Office Administration. The current enrollment of business education students numbers about 200 undergraduate and graduate students with a staff of eight: Dr. Ellen M. Clemens, chairman; Clayton H. Hinkel; Dr. James C. Kincaid; Dr. Ellen L. Lensing; Dr. Margaret J. Long; Dr. Thomas B. Martin; Jack L. Meiss; and D. Bruce Sneidman.

Some milestones of the Department include:

1934, first graduating class of 31 who followed a regular four-year Commercial Teacher Training Curriculum received degrees;

1935, Alpha Delta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi received charter;

1939, founder of the Division, Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, was named president of the College;

1945, Department of Business Education moved to Navy Hall;

1955, Department of Business Education celebrated Silver Anniversary;

1960, Division of Business Education occupied Sutliff Hall;

1960, inauguration of a program of graduate studies leading to the Master of Education degree under the direction of Dr. Thomas B. Martin;

1970, with the reorganization of the academic divisions, the School of Business was formed and divided into the Department of Business Administration and the Department of Business Education;

1977, Office Administration was added to the curriculum in the Business Education Department;

1980, petition accepted to establish a chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon.

The department plans to celebrate the golden anniversary of business education at BSC with various activities. Although plans have not been finalized, the department is working on a directory of business education graduates (1930-1980), a reception and dinner commemorating this milestone, and a collection of pictures, events, and correspondence of our 50-year history of development and progress.

The department would like to hear from all of its graduates in order to update its records. More important, they want to include YOU in the Golden Anniversary Directory. They need to know: Name (maiden), Class Year, Address, County, Telephone Number, Name and Address of School Where Employed, Telephone Number of School, plus a short description of your current situation (include total years teaching business subjects).

Please send this information by November 12 to

Pantaleo appointed dean

Dr. Daniel C. Pantaleo, a member of the BSC chemistry department faculty, has been appointed dean of the college's School of Extended Programs by President James H. McCormick. The appointment was effective August 18.

Pantaleo joined the faculty in 1977 as an assistant professor of chemistry. He replaces Richard O. Wolfe who left earlier this year to take a position at Gonzaga University, Spokane, Washington.

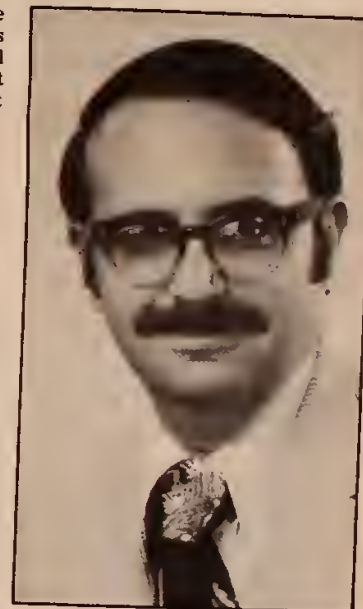

From May through December, 1977, Pantaleo was on leave in the Philippines to lecture and do research under terms of a Fulbright-Hays Lectureship. He spent five months at the science education center of the University of the Philippines, Manila, as an instructor of science education graduate students in lecture and laboratory techniques in chemistry and astronomy.

Also during his leave, Pantaleo assisted chemistry and physical science teachers develop effective teaching techniques.

He was nominated for the Fulbright-Hays award for innovation and excellence in teaching. During his tenure at Bloomsburg he has implemented audio-visual techniques in teaching introductory chemistry.

Pantaleo's service at BSC has included publication of articles, presentation of papers and presentations to elementary and secondary school students and adults on science-related subjects. He was recipient of a released time award to develop a creative teaching proposal.

A native New Yorker, he received a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Manhattan College and a doctorate in organic chemistry from Emory University, Atlanta. He is a member of the American Chemical Society, the National Science Teachers Association and Sigma Xi, a national research honor society.

Pantaleo and his wife, Sheilah, live in Bloomsburg.

Affirmative action officer

Irwin Wright has been named affirmative action/desegregation officer and Title IX coordinator for the 1980-81 school year. Wright replaces Deborah Chiodo, who has moved from the area.

Wright, previously the assistant director of the center for academic development, will return to his former position when a permanent director is appointed.

Wright came to BSC in 1977 and for the past four seasons has been an assistant football coach here. He holds a master of education degree from the University of Toledo, an associate of arts degree from Dodge City Community Junior College and a bachelor of education degree from the State University of New York.

Nursing program meeting need

Dr. GERTRUDE FLYNN

After six years and two graduating classes, the nursing department at BSC continues to grow in size and success.

The job market has been receptive to the approximately 100 nursing students who have earned Bachelor of Science degrees. The 56 students who graduated last year had the second highest job placement rate in the college, 98.18 percent. About 20 hospitals came to the campus trying to recruit nurses for their staff. Many hospitals offer free transportation to the hospital, free dinners and show tickets. A hospital in Hawaii offers plane fare, extra vacation time and membership to athletic clubs. "Last year each student had four or five offers without trying," commented Dr. Gertrude Flynn, nursing director.

The four-year program was created after the local health planning agency did a feasibility study which showed the need for a state baccalaureate program in this area. The closest one is West Chester State College. After careful screening, Flynn was hired as director.

Turning the focus of study more and more toward the very sick patient is one innovation taking place in the program. In the future, most illnesses will be treated on an outpatient basis, with only the very ill patient hospitalized. A lifespan psychology class has also been added. Even a Spanish course, Spanish for Health Professionals, has been added as an elective.

Isolation from the other faculty and the main campus is one problem. The nursing department is located in the Boyer Building on Lightstreet Road, west of the campus. The distance between the department and the campus often creates a feeling of being physically removed from the college.

In the freshman year the nursing students learn the basic sciences such as anatomy, physiology and chemistry in the classroom. As sophomores, the students begin visiting various hospitals to study the average patient problems. In their junior year, the nursing students study advanced nursing which includes surgery and psychiatry in hospitals and institutions a few days a week. As seniors, the students visit a number of places such as child guidance centers, prisons, migrant camps, Amish communities, patients' homes and factories to gain a wide knowledge of community health nursing.

The students graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing. After passing a national examination, they become registered nurses.

"Nursing students and faculty must work much harder because things change from day to day and we are dealing with human lives," Flynn added, "We're not complaining because this is the work we have chosen, but it is a fact of life."

direction of Columbia University Teachers College. When the term 'action research' began to gain popularity, I was fully prepared for the movement. It is less spoken of now, but just as much needed."

Dr. Parke noted that "without the foundation I had in the Bureau of Research in Bloomsburg, I would never have been prepared for the research I undertook (later)..."

Born on January 6, 1901, in Mauch Chunk, Pa. (Jim Thorpe), Dr. Parke was the daughter of Oscar H. and Laura Rader Bittner. Valedictorian of her high school class, she was temporarily unable to pursue higher education after the family business failed. She applied for a teaching position and pursued a work-study program over an extended period of years.

With only two years as a full-time student, but with many evening, summer and Saturday courses, she graduated from Bloomsburg in 1923, from Pennsylvania State University in 1927 (B. A. degree), and Teachers College of Columbia University with an M.A. degree in 1930 and a Ed. D. degree in 1945.

Of her time at Bloomsburg, she wrote: "I had been at Bloomsburg for only one year and two summers, but that was the precious time that determined the course my life would take. It never ceases to impress on me what the right kind of education can mean. The influence of Bloomsburg runs throughout my life."

Dr. Parke's career as a professional educator began as an elementary teacher in Rockport, Pa., from 1919 to 1920 and at Packerton, Pa., from 1920 to 1922. After leaving Bloomsburg, she taught junior high school English in Doylestown, Pa. (1923-1926), Mount Vernon, N.Y. (1927-1928) and Tuckahoe, N.Y. (1928-1929). At the latter school she was a guidance counselor and director of guidance and research from 1929 to 1937.

In other positions with the public schools of New York City she was a vocational counselor (1937), junior research assistant with the Bureau of Reference, Research and Statistics (1937-1944) and research associate in the Bureau of Curriculum Research (1944-1951).

In 1951, Dr. Parke joined the faculty of Brooklyn College of the City University of New York as an associate professor of education. In 1958 she was promoted to the rank of full professor.

In summers she served as an assistant professor at Queens College of CUNY and as a lecturer at State University of New York at Cortland. She was also a research assistant at the Rockefeller Institute of Social and Religious Research, a researcher for the Center for Urban Education, and a staff person at Bookhouse for Children.

Dr. Parke pioneered in career guidance in elementary and secondary schools and promoted curriculum development in terms of growth levels of children in contrast to grade levels. She has led research projects in language arts and reading in "Early America taught the language with one book. Rural schools thrived that way with heterogeneous classes. When we abandoned ability grouping in our schools, we set up the need for something other than graded textbooks. Publishers have been slow to see this and to buy the idea."

"We need a Department of Education in the federal government, divorced from health and welfare, to tackle the problem of education for a democracy. Published materials and new educational programs for teachers are badly needed. Let's give

"For all of the honors bestowed upon me, I am deeply indebted to the research department at Bloomsburg in 1922-23 where I worked under such inspiring people as Dr. John Herring and Dr. Gerald Craig on my very first educational research project."

the New York City schools, which included a unique spelling program, and wrote and promoted picture dictionaries of most-used words in the English language.

Professor Parke also led college teachers in developing a teacher-education program in which instruction in methods and practice teaching was carried on simultaneously with emphasis on the integration of subject matter. She also developed and supervised graduate programs in English and reading instruction at Brooklyn College, CUNY.

In her biographical entry in "Contemporary Authors," Dr. Parke writes: "My writing has been directed toward helping parents of young children recognize the need for observing carefully whether or not their children were acquiring the basic skills in the early grades. Toward this end I wrote books for parents in the '50s, when many educators were saying, 'Parents, keep hands off. Let the schools teach.' Today there is a great awakening."

"I devoted much time and energy to selling the idea of dictionaries in our schools. I observed that some children who came from foreign countries brought bilingual dictionaries with them and were greatly helped. Schools have not yet caught up with the need for this procedure."

"Books labeled by grades, particularly work books, are not suited to all children in a given grade. With a picture dictionary, a child can be taught to speak about the pictures, match words and pictures, recognize words and read, detect sounds in words, learn to detect the various spellings for the sounds in our language, spell words as well as read them."

teachers teachable classes and materials. Emphasize international phonetics as a basic for learning all languages. In our efforts to democratize education, we have failed to provide teachers with materials they need to meet the range of abilities in their classrooms."

Dr. Parke has written numerous articles, books and pamphlets for children, teachers and parents. Her publications have included the following: "Young Readers' Dictionary" (1955); "My First Book to Read" (1957); "My Second Book to Read" (1957); "Young Readers' Color-Picture Dictionary for Reading, Writing and Spelling" (1958); (contributor) "Children's Writing: Research in Composition and Related Skills" (1960); "The Practice Workbooks of Writing" (1961); "Picture Dictionary for Primary Grades" (1960); "Getting to Know Australia" (1962); (contributor) "Issues Here and Abroad" (1963); "Young Readers' Dictionary Workbook" (1963); "You Can Teach Your Child to Read" (1968); "Vocabulary Workbook" (1970); "The Practice Workbook of Words" (1971); "Third Grade at Work" (film); "Helping First Grade Children to Learn" (film, co-author). In addition, she has written more than 30 articles for education journals.

Through the years, Dr. Parke has been actively involved in the National Vocational Guidance Association, Association of Supervision and Curriculum Development, and the American Research Association.

Other organizational affiliations have included the Women's Press Club of New York City, Common Cause, Citizens Union of New York City, the American Association of University Women, National Education Association, New York Academy of Public Education, International Reading Association, National Association of Teachers of English, Pi Lambda Theta, Kappa Delta Pi, National Conference on Research in English, National Council of Administrative Women in Education, College English Educators, PSC of College Teachers, Retired Teachers Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science (fellow), and Daughters of the American Revolution.

Dr. Parke has an honorary Doctor of Arts degree from Staley College, and she received a Fulbright Award to teach in Australia, Taiwan and the Philippines.

She was awarded the Distinguished Service Award by the BSC Alumni Association in 1973. Pennsylvania State University has also recognized her as a Distinguished Alumna.

Other awards have included a certificate of merit from International Biography (1969) for "Young Readers, Color-Picture Dictionary; an award from the Library of Human Resources, American Bicentennial Research Committee (1974); and a citation from the local chapter of the International Reading Association (1975). She is a fellow of the International Institute of Community Service (1975).

Dr. Parke is recognized in "Who's Who of American Women," "Dictionary of International Biography," "Who's Who in the East," "World's Who's Who of Women," "Leaders in Education," "Creative and Successful Personalities of the World," "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans," "Contemporary Authors," and "International Who's Who of Intellectuals."

On December 24, 1937, she married Roger I. Parke, a commander in the United States Naval Reserve until his death in 1968.

She has travelled widely on every continent and has been a participant in lectures in world-wide conferences. She resides in Brooklyn, N.Y.

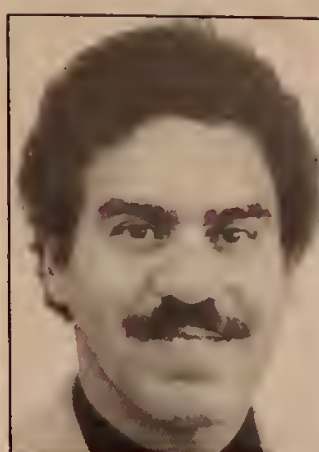

In "International Who's Who of Intellectuals," are summarized her aims and ambitions: "To live a useful life, to teach and guide, to search for better answers to educational problems, to write books, to develop school and college curricula, and thus contribute to the improvement of teaching and supervision of teaching."

Current enrollment picture bright

On April 1 of this year, the Admissions Office stopped accepting applications for the 1980-81 freshman class. At that time, 4,300 applications had been received for the 1,050 openings.

At about the same time, applications from students seeking admission as transfer students were also closed. About 900 applications, the majority from students in two-year institutions, were processed to fill 225 openings.

With a total of 6,503 students registered for undergraduate and graduate courses this semester, BSC is maintaining its goal of a stabilized enrollment.

The 6,503 total includes 4,940 full-time undergraduate students, 175 part-time undergraduate students, 693 non-degree students, 85 full-time graduate students and 671 part-time graduate students.

Tom L. Cooper, dean of admissions and records, noted that in 1978, the year being used to establish enrollment goals, the total was 6,321.

"We're right on target, just about where we wanted to be at this point," Cooper observed. He added that there had been an increase in applications for admission this year, but that the number was limited in accordance with the college policy to aim for enrollment stability. National studies show full-time college enrollments will peak at 6,853,000 in 1981 and will decline to 6,185,000 by 1988.

The decision to avoid enrollment growth was reached two years ago when it became evident that the College would not be able to maintain quality instruction for a larger number of students than were then enrolled.

How can you tell if your son or daughter—or any young person—is "college material"?

There is no sure-fire answer, but here are the guidelines used by the admissions staff in evaluating applicants:

- C-plus average or better in an academic program;
- Upper half of high school class;
- Combined SAT scores of 850;
- Positive activities and recommendations.

These guidelines are used for in-state applicants; guidelines for out-of-state applicants are "a little more selective," according to Dean Cooper. Children of alumni living in other states are evaluated by the in-state guidelines.

Dean Cooper emphasizes that these are only guidelines; there are no arbitrary cutoffs.

Applicants for transfer from other colleges and universities should have at least a 2.5 cumulative grade average (on a 4.0 scale). The mean grade average of the applicants is 2.99.

The typical member of the Class of 1984 had an overall academic average of 86.8 percent, ranked at the 72 percentile of his/her class, completed 18.9 academic units in high school and had a combined SAT score of 970.

The BSC Admissions Staff visits most high schools in eastern Pennsylvania. Call the guidance office of your local high school to find out if a visit is scheduled.

Alumni return to compete again

Among the events bringing alumni back to BSC this fall are an alumni cross country meet, tennis match and women's basketball game.

Cross Country Meet

The second annual Alumni Cross Country meet on September 6 resulted in a 22-34 victory for the alumni team.

The alumni captured first, second and third place in the 5.3 mile run.

Steve Johnson was the coordinator for the alumni team which included: Jeff Brandt, first place with a time of 28:26 minutes; Tim Walchert, second place, 28:37; Stan Cohen, third place, 29:57; Johnson, fifth, 30:33; Mark Bond, eleventh, 32:11; Bob Kantner, nineteenth, 35:20.

Brandt is a national class runner who has participated in many marathons.

Steve Eachus, Randy Griffith and Gary Lausch contacted the college but were unable to attend.

Many of the alumni met at Brandt's house the day before the event and stayed there overnight.

The event was run in the "spirit of friendship and camaraderie," added Stewart Nagel, faculty member who assisted cross country headcoach Carolyn Wernstedt.

Men's Tennis Match

An alumni men's tennis match was held on October 11 and 12 according to Burt Reese, BSC men's tennis coach.

Approximately eight alumni participated against the varsity men's team in single and double matches.

Women's Basketball Game

An alumni women's basketball game will be held on Saturday, November 15 at 1 p.m. in Nelson Fieldhouse.

This is the second year the game will be held. Last year the varsity team won, but the game was very close, said BSC women's basketball headcoach Susan Hibbs. About 25-30 alumni are expected to return.

The varsity team will host an informal get-together after the game.

Bob Roberts addresses August graduates

"One must look inward into himself and tap those innermost resources that make us human and able to express that most humanizing emotion of all—love."

That was the message of Dr. Percival R. Roberts III to the more than 130 graduating seniors and approximately 110 graduate students at the summer commencement exercises on August 14.

In his address, which he dedicated to the college faculty, Roberts, a noted educator, poet and artist and chairman of the art department, referred to the teachings of Socrates, who said "the unexamined life is not worth living," and the writings of Protagoras, whose philosophy can be summed up in the statement, "Man is the measure of all things."

Roberts said that placing these ideas effectively in motion requires one to look outward into his environment and to protect our cherished but diminishing resources.

Barry W. Benson, acting vice-president for academic affairs, presided at the commencement ceremonies in Haas Auditorium. The degrees were conferred by President James H. McCormick, who also gave the welcoming remarks. Joseph M. Nespoli, chairman of the board of trustees, awarded the degrees.

Introducing their schools were the respective deans: Dr. C. Alfred Forsyth, arts and sciences; Dr. Emory W. Rarig Jr., business; Dr. Howard K. Macauley, professional studies; and Dr. Charles H. Carlson, graduate studies. Hooding of the master's degree candidates was done by Benson.

Roberts went on to express the idea of love in a language he considers even more beautiful than our own. He quoted from the French philosopher Jean Jacques Rousseau's autobiographic confession, "Je sens mon coeur et je connais les hommes," which means that he who feels what is in his own heart will understand mankind. One of the ways in which we can keep this humanness alive is to keep oneself actively involved in the arts, which, above all else, celebrate the beauty of life.

He also admonished the graduates to keep alert, continue to challenge the status quo, to responsibly question the established order of things, and again and again refine the knife edges of their existence.

In his welcoming remarks, McCormick spoke of the sacrifices made by the students, family and friends to achieve the goal of graduation. He said he hoped the graduates were as enlightened by their education as the college was by their years of contributions. He extolled the achievements of the college in recent years, emphasizing the excellent enrollment patterns, placement records and the sound management record.

In extending congratulations to the graduates, McCormick said, "You have taken advantage of the liberal arts and sciences part of your education here at Bloomsburg State College. You have developed a love of learning, and appreciation for the arts, broad based interests, and the skills for critical thinking that will enable you to function effectively as a responsible member of the complex society in which we live."

He requested that all present continue to support higher education throughout the commonwealth. He praised the faculty and administrators for their important roles in the college's development, as well as the board of trustees.

Honor students

Those students who graduated with honors were the following: highest honors (3.75-4.00) — Suzanne L. Huffnagle, Bloomsburg, medical technology; Karl A. Kepner, Port Royal, arts and sciences; Linda A. Tellefsen, Westwood, N.J., business administration; Holly L. Uhler, Washington, N.J., business administration; Janet D. Watts, Millville, business education.

High Honors (3.60-3.74) — Marie A. Barr, Lemoyne, elementary education/early childhood; Jeffrey A. Faust, Danville, business administration, Hester J. Huffnagle, Bloomsburg, medical technology; Anthony J. Panzarella, Hazleton, elementary education.

Honors (3.50-3.59) — Michael J. Azar, Allentown, business administration; Judith R. Vargo, Riverside, arts and sciences.

Student remarks were given by Scott McCabe, acting Community Government Association president, and Beverly Howard, senior class president. Reverend Gregory C. Osterberg gave the invocation. Mary J. Hodges was organist.

Sculpture graces plaza

A cast aluminium sculpture entitled "Two Elongated Forms" was set in place August 7 in the Aumiller Plaza under the direction of noted Pennsylvania artist James Myford.

The placing of the two forms, which together weigh nearly 1200 pounds, culminated the project which began last November when Myford's sculpture was selected from 14 models received following a nationwide appeal.

The 10-foot high sculpture was placed on a 6 x 6 concrete base just outside the south entrance to the Kehr Union.

After being commissioned to do the sculpture, Myford, an associate professor of art at Slippery Rock State College, worked as an artist-in-residence during the initial forming of the work in styrofoam. He then returned to a commercial foundry in Pittsburgh where it took about a month to do the casting. Myford returned to the campus to do the cleanup and finishing work necessary before installation.

Aumiller Plaza was named in honor of Dr. Lee E. Aumiller, an outstanding educator at BSC before his death in January 1973.

Good man at the helm

THE "OPENING Day" address of Dr. James H. McCormick, president of Bloomsburg State College to the institution's employees gathered in Carver Hall, had something for everyone remotely interested — including the general public.

There was advice, enlightenment, guidance, yes, and even implied criticism of faculty, administration, non-instructional employees, students, Bloomsburg area residents and others. But it was full of commendation also.

But there was something more in the Prexy's speech that many may have missed. It was a classic example of how to enlist an effort by each individual for the general good of all.

It goes without saying, of course, that the general good is the public's good in this instance.

EVEN INCLUDING such "business" items as, "I take pleasure in introducing . . ." Dr. McCormick's talk contained 58 instances of use of personal pronouns such as "I . . . me . . . my."

But he used pronouns such as "we . . . our . . . us . . . you" 144 times.

The speech was heavily sprinkled with observations such as "WE can solve OUR problems . . . WE realize that there will be a period of trial and error . . . OUR fine programs and services."

And that gives insight into the man who took over the helm of a financially-troubled, emotionally-disturbed and publicly-criticized institution not too many years ago.

Although none who really know him is unaware that he's the "man in charge" — sometimes harshly so — his administration has been one of delegation of responsibility.

That delegation has been accompanied by demands of accountability. But this has been tempered by similar accountability on his part.

DR. MCCORMICK IS high in his praise of the accomplishments of the members of his staff. Indeed, it is difficult to converse with him more than a few minutes before he seizes the opportunity to commend some one or some department for some accomplishment.

Even such things as observing the maintenance staff's "well cared for lawns and flower beds . . ." come in for recognition.

To the uninitiated, one might well wonder if, in fact, the president of the institution does anything at all himself. Those that know, know better.

IT MAY WELL BE that Dr. McCormick has an ulterior motive in his unstinting commendations. It may well be that he is aware you get more bees with honey than vinegar and that machinery runs smoother and more efficiently with some verbal lubrication than with abrasive grit.

If so, so be it. He has welded together a cohesive efficient team making preparations to address serious problems confronting higher education in the '80s.

He is enlisting their support and he is enlisting yours also.

He cannot demand your support, as he can of his staff, but inasmuch as Bloomsburg State College is one of this region's biggest employers both in numbers and in financial impact on the community, the wise resident of this area will use his influence to bolster the college in the difficult days ahead.

News briefs from the campus

Elderhostel

Two Elderhostel sessions will be offered at BSC next year, according to an announcement by Dr. Dan Pantaleo, dean of the School of Extended Programs. The sessions are scheduled for May 31 to June 6 and from August 2 to August 8.

Tentative plans call for three courses to be offered: a Shakespeare course by Dr. William Baillie, a Middle East history in perspective course by Dr. George Turner, and an art survey course by Robert Koslosky. In addition, a mini-course in music is expected to be offered.

Alumni interested in participating in either session should contact Dr. Pantaleo.

We're in NCAA Division II

All of the men's varsity sports at BSC are now in NCAA Division II with the exception of wrestling, which is Division I, according to an announcement by Cecil Turberville, athletic director. Several advantages will accrue from this change, and it will add prestige to the conference, particularly in football and basketball.

Carlson honored

Dr. Charles H. Carlson, former interim president at BSC, was honored at a reception on August 13 in the Presidents' Lounge of Kehr Union. During the reception, the photograph of Dr. Carlson was officially displayed along with other former BSC chief administrators. Dr. Carlson served as interim president during the 1972-73 college year following the resignation of Dr. Robert Nossen. He now serves as dean of the School of Graduate Studies. Recently, Dr. Carlson was appointed as a consultant on graduate education for the state of Delaware.

Acting director

Kay F. Campese has been named acting director of the Center for Counseling and Human Development at BSC, according to President McCormick recently reported to the Alumni Board of Directors that Bloomsburg State College is now the tenth largest of all the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, based on enrollment, and the third largest of the state colleges.

Power disrupted

A 12,000-volt cable on the lower campus broke at 1:30 a.m. on September 4, disrupting electrical service to Bakeless Center, Haas Center, Andruss Library, Hartline Science Center, Waller Administration Building, Lycoming and Luzerne Residence Halls.

Some adjustments in the various buildings were necessary until power was restored the following day.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, said this disruption demonstrated the need for maintenance projects included in the Governor's Capital Budget.

Journalism Institute

The 11th Annual Journalism Institute was held on October 18 with Peter Lance, a producer of the television show, "20/20," as the endowed lecturer.

An accomplished producer and journalist, Lance has had much experience as a reporter, radio station producer, and has worked with Ralph Nader. He produced five segments for the Great American Dream Machine on PBS. Since September of 1978 he has been a producer for the ABC news magazine.

He earned his undergraduate degree at Northeastern University, an M.S. from Columbia University and a J.D. degree from Fordham Law School.

McCormick elected

President McCormick has been elected to chair the Commission for the State Colleges and University for a two-year term. He had been serving an unexpired term in that position.

Campers and bikers

The 1981 Camp-Vention of the National Campers and Hikers Association will be held at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds next July.

BSC alumni who are members of the NCHA are especially invited to come to the Camp-Vention and to visit their Alma Mater at the same time.

If you're coming, let us know and we'll be happy to welcome you.

PP&L funds research

The Pennsylvania Power and Light Company has funded a cooperative research proposal at BSC for the measurement of solar and wind energies. PP&L has provided $8,410 for the purchase of high quality equipment for the study, and the physics department will provide the staff for the collection and evaluation of data. The proposal was designed by Dr. David A. Superdock, chairman of the physics department, who will direct the project. The project is expected to be continued over at least a five-year period.

Abell on Town Council

John Abell, director of housing at BSC, was recently appointed to fill a vacancy on Bloomsburg Town Council.

Placement services

The Career Development and Placement Center at BSC offers many services to graduating students. The office maintains a free placement service for graduates. At the request of the student or a potential employer, a copy of the student's credentials file is sent to the potential employer free of charge. The files are kept for six years after graduation, but may be renewed or reactivated.

Projects approved

Creative teaching, research and creative arts projects, proposed by the following faculty members, were approved in the past academic year:

Creative teaching recipients: Harold Bailey, mathematics department; Mary Lou John, communication disorders department.

Research recipients: Wayne Anderson, chemistry; Barrett Benson, chemistry; Steve Cohen, psychology; Thomas Manley, biology and allied health sciences; and Alex Poplawsky, psychology.

A nice way to give

A life insurance policy, payable in whole or in part to the BSC Alumni Association, represents one of the most attractive and flexible methods for making a contribution. Here are some of the reasons:

Life insurance enables you to make a substantial gift to the Alumni Association at death by making small contributions during your lifetime.

A life insurance gift is made without impairing other assets earmarked for your family.

Payment of the proceeds is made to the Alumni Association promptly, and in cash.

The gift is not subject to question by heirs since life insurance proceeds paid to the Alumni Association are not part of your probate estate.

The Alumni Association may make use of the life insurance company's investment facilities by electing to leave the death proceeds with the company under one of several attractive settlement options.

The accumulating cash value in the policy grows at a guaranteed rate under the insurance company's expert investment supervision, providing an additional benefit to the Alumni Association.

For details, consult with your local insurance agent.

New graduate program

A newly-developed graduate program in communication leading to the degree of Master of Arts is slated to begin in the spring semester. The program is sponsored by the English department and the speech/mass communication/theatre department.

The degree is designed for persons with a bachelor's degree in any field who wish to learn more about the nature of communication.

Print media, television, radio and films will be studied as well as interpersonal communication and theories of communication.

Co-directors of the graduate program are Dr. Walter M. Brasch and James E. Tomlinson. Brasch, a specialist in mass communications, is a former newspaper reporter and editor, writer-director for television, film and multi-media produc-

Tomlinson, a specialist in intercultural, organizational and group communication, is a former consultant to the DuPont Corporation, and the Tokyo Institute for the English Language. He has conducted research into nonverbal communication of the blind and group dynamics and was formerly on the faculties at California State University at Long Beach and the University of Delaware.

Business advisors organized

The newly-appointed advisory board to the School of Business at BSC held its first meeting on September 5, according to Dr. Emory W. Rarig Jr., dean of the School of Business.

In its first session the board explored the question: "What are the directions that business will take in the 1980s, and what should BSC be doing now to meet those challenges?"

The advisory board consists of eleven prominent business leaders and BSC alumni who are currently in strategic business management positions, and whose best thinking is being sought for guidance by the School of Business as the college enters the exciting decade of the 1980s.

Singers tour Europe

"America is here" came over the loudspeaker as the BSC Madrigal Singers arrived at the International Eisteddfod at Llangollen, Wales. Llangollen was one of 11 concert stops the Singers made on their tour of Europe this summer.

The 21-member Madrigal Singers are a select vocal group whose repertoire is based on Renaissance choral literature. On tour, the Singers based half of each performance on traditional madrigal repertoire along with music by Mozart, which the Europeans would recognize. The second half was American music, which included selections from the Bay Psalm book, the first book printed in the United States, up to the Twentieth Century.

Liverpool's City of Liverpool College of Higher Education (COLCHE) was the first concert stop. Both performances were met with warm receptions as were all the Singers' concerts. COLCHE has exchanged student teachers with BSC in the past but decided to invite the Singers this summer as an alternative to the regular exchange program.

July 4 found the group in the Liverpool where air time was arranged for the Singers to perform our national anthem on BBC television. Dr. Richard Stanislaw, conductor of the Singers, commented on the group's great surprise and added that the BBC had apologized because only about two million people were watching.

In addition to the 11 formal concerts, the group gave numerous impromptu performances. For instance, enroute from Liverpool to Keswick, the Singers stopped at a restaurant in the Lake District of England. When Stanislaw asked the hostess if the group could sing, she said that Europeans just did not do that, but if the Singers wanted to, they could. Everyone in the restaurant clapped and cheered.

Bikers pedal U.S.A.

While many BSC students were lying on the beach this summer, Dr. Steve Bresett and other Quest participants were bicycling across the United States.

Quest, headed by Bresett, is a BSC program which stresses the importance of learning by doing in different environments (land, sea and sky) away from the campus. These new environments elevate the students' stress levels and heighten their awareness, making learning easier.

Bresett and eight others left Bloomsburg on May 20 in a college van, beginning a five and one half week Quest expedition which would cover 2,200 miles on bicycle from the Pacific coastline of Oregon to Michigan.

Averaging 84 miles per day, the cyclists covered a large part of the U.S. and toured such landmarks as Crater Lake, Grand Teton National Park, Yellowstone National Park, the Badlands and Mount Rushmore.

A recent eruption and bad weather made Mount St. Helens and Mount Rainier impossible to see.

"We did see environments totally different from what we are accustomed to in the east. We saw the Rockies, of course, but at the same time we saw the deserts, the plateaus, the endless stretches of space . . . The high ground has growth and trees and the low ground has desert, yet they're right next to each other. Such stark con-

The BSC Madrigal Singers culminated their tour at the International Eisteddfod at Llangollen, at which choirs and folkdancers from all over the world meet annually to compete. The Singers placed eighth out of 33 groups in the mixed choir division.

Although no one in Europe knew where Bloomsburg was, most people thought it was near California, commented Stanislaw.

The train ride from Llangollen became memorable for the Singers when a competing Philippine choir came to their car and the two groups sang for hours.

The language barrier caused no isolation or lack of appreciation at any concert. The group became better known as the Americans than the Madrigal Singers and were warmly received. In their own way, the Singers became ambassadors of song, dispelling the idea abroad of the "ugly American."

London, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris were other stops. On the steps of the Versailles Palace, with nearly an hour to wait in the rain, the Madrigal Singers burst into song for the crowd.

No major problems arose on the trip and the students were uncommonly successful at presenting themselves and America. "I'd like to do it again in about three years," added Stanislaw, "when another college generation would have a chance to enjoy a trip such as this."

Those who participated in the trip were Dr. and Mrs. Stanislaw, Jamie Heckman, Cathleen Readdy, Rebecca Thorp, Wendy Nyborg, Lois Thomson, Michele Rader, Marta Herr, Kimberly Smith, Julie Stamets, Lenore Firsching, James Robison, Lee Mueller, Jon Shaffer, Patrick Walsh, Rod Bickert, Stephen Kanouse, Robert Nestine, J. Eric Hariz, Joel Aurand, Gregg Giannuzzi and Dr. Mary Lou John.

trasts are found all the way across," Bresett commented.

The group also saw various wildlife such as moose, elk, buffalo, coyotes, antelope, prairie dogs and eagles.

At night the cyclists camped at public campgrounds whenever possible. Once the group asked permission to camp on someone's lawn, and once the cyclists stayed at a vacant fairground similar to Bloomsburg's.

On several nights the cyclists encountered frost, and one day their trip was delayed because of snow.

The van stayed with the cyclists throughout the trip to provide food, clothing and material for minor bicycle repairs. Each cyclist took his or her turn at the wheel. "When your day to drive came along you were kind of happy because you were getting tired," added Bresett.

The idea for the trip began as a joke several months before. But by March what once seemed like only a pipe dream became a commitment.

Those who participated in the trip were Bresett and his wife, Marilyn, Pat Kroschewsky, Dave Williams, Kim Stephens, Wayne Yankelowitz, Gina Onusheo, Randy Robinson, and Tim Blanchard.

The Quest cyclists boarded the BSC van in Michigan and returned to Bloomsburg on June 27.

Germany is setting for mini-reunion

By G. WAYNE LAEPPLE '69

A sort of BSC mini-reunion took place in Dusseldorf, Germany, on the weekend of May 8-11. My wife, Kitty (Kiner) '71, and I met John and Shelby (Treon) Harer, both '72, who are living in that city and spent the weekend with them.

Kitty and I and our daughter Katie had been traveling in the British Isles for several weeks while I am on sabbatical leave from teaching eighth grade English in Danville, Pa. We had arranged with John and Shelby to spend a long weekend with them — it's not all that far to Germany from England.

We actually started our trip in Glasgow,

The LAEPPLES

Scotland, on April 16. After a few days in Scotland's largest city, we toured the lovely highlands and Inner Hebrides Islands of Scotland's northwest. One of the highlights of our time in the highlands was a visit to Urquhart Castle, a ruined fortress which overlooks Loch Ness, but we never did spot "Nessie," the famed monster.

We also spent a few days in Edinburgh, Scotland's capital city, doing all the usual tourist things like visiting the Castle and the Palace of Holyroodhouse before taking a train south into England.

For a week, we rented a car and toured the Northeast and the Midlands. Most tourists seem to avoid the Northeast because of its heavily industrialized and dirty reputation, but we thoroughly enjoyed the area. For several days we stayed in Pickering, an ancient town where the TV series "All Creatures Great and Small" was filmed.

After a week of driving on the other side of the road — which isn't nearly as difficult as it may sound — we turned in our rented car at Cambridge and took a train from there to Harwich on the English Channel.

We had booked a two-berth room on the night crossing of the English Channel. The Dutch ship "Prinses Beatrix" was our hotel and transport for the night. Sailing from Harwich at 11 p.m., it arrived at the Hook of Holland at 6:30 the next morning.

From there we took a train to Amsterdam. The city itself is a very bustling, cosmopolitan one — more Continental than London and certainly more so than New York. It is absolutely teeming with people, so much so that clashes between police and squatters are a regular event.

From the Central Railway Station, we took a tram to the Western Church, and from there it was just a short walk to the house where Anne Frank and her family hid from the Nazis during World War II. Both Kitty and I had been involved in the Bloomsburg Players production of "The Diary of Anne Frank," and our visit to the place where it had actually happened was a profoundly moving experience. The other visitors were also affected by what the house stands for. We observed people with tears in their eyes, and everyone was as quiet as if they were in church.

In the afternoon, we took a tour of the city's canals on a glass-topped boat. The tour took us through the older part of the city past many of the distinctively-gabled houses fronting on the canals as well as through the busy harbor areas.

We caught a train from Amsterdam to Dusseldorf in the late afternoon, and John and Shelby and their son Justin met us at the station. John has a one-year assignment as librarian at the American Institute there, and they have an apartment just a block from the Rhine.

On Saturday we all took a train some 50 miles to Bonn and then a tram to Konigswinter, a small resort town along the Rhine. We spent the day there, riding to the top of a mountain on a rack railway and visiting the two castles there. One is in ruins, but the other is now a museum. After our visit to the castles, we relaxed in a riverbank beer garden, enjoying Germany's national beverage while we watched boat traffic on the Rhine.

Sunday was spent in Dusseldorf. We walked through the center of the city, visiting several of the large parks there, all of which were ablaze with the colors of blooming flowers. John also took us to see his school, which educates American children as well as those from other nations in the international community.

Shelby, meanwhile, prepared an excellent dinner for us. We had to "eat and run" to catch our train back to the Hook of Holland, where we boarded the British ship "MV Prince Edmund" for the overnight trip back to England.

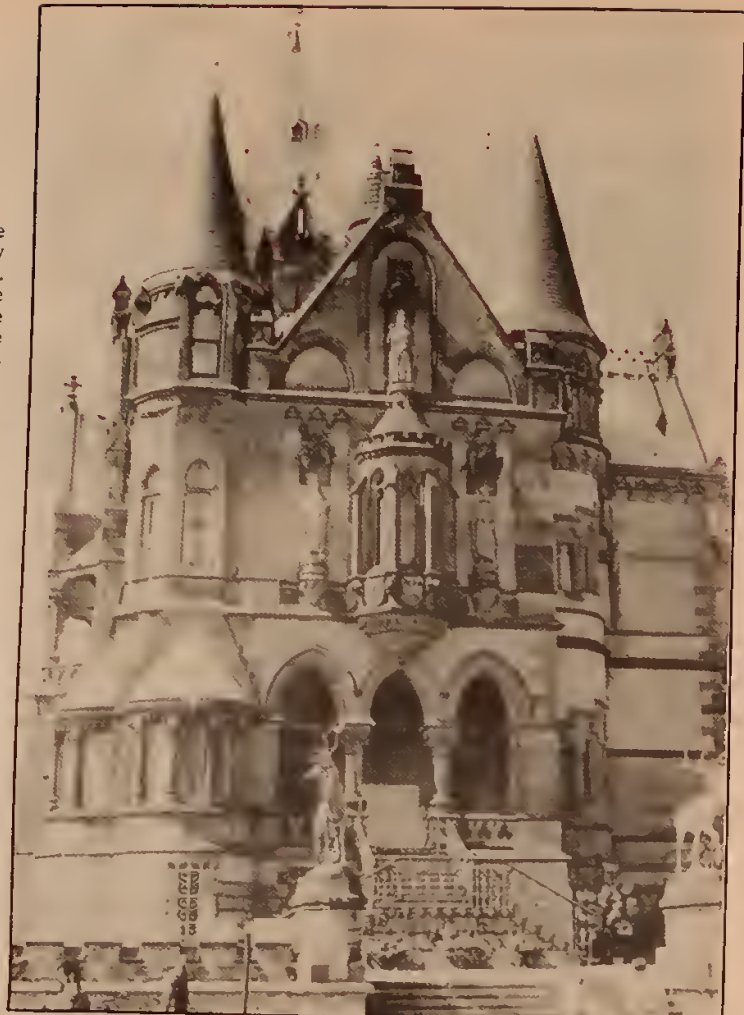

Monday morning we took a train into London, taxied across town to Euston Station and caught another train to Shrewsbury on the Welsh border. We had decided not to spend any time in London since we had spent a week there in 1977.

Our last week was spent in the West Country. We rented a car for a couple of excursions into Wales since we couldn't make good train or bus connections, and we were able to spend an entire day at Ironbridge, a fascinating open-air museum in the area where the Industrial Revolution began in 1706. On the weekend we went to Birmingham and spent our last three days with some English friends we'd made on our previous trip.

We finally came back to Bloomsburg on Wednesday, May 22. We were away long enough so that we suffered somewhat from culture shock — and we had a mountain of mail to pore over and a lot of other catching up to do. We enjoyed the trip tremendously, and we've already begun thinking about what we might do if we ever get another chance to go.

Sociology Honor Society

The Department of Sociology/Social Welfare has just been approved for a chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, the International Sociology Honor Society. The BSC chapter will be Phi of Pennsylvania and will initiate its first student members in the spring of 1981. "This is a step forward to improving the quality of sociology education at BSC," according to Dr. Christopher Armstrong of the department.

Nursing fair

Job recruiters from more than 25 hospitals, medical centers and visiting nurse associations visited BSC during the second annual nursing fair on October 24 at BSC.

Recruitment efforts by health service institutions and organizations have been intensified because of the growing shortage of trained nursing personnel. It was an awareness of developing needs that led BSC to initiate the nursing degree program and other programs in the allied health services.

Fraternity petition accepted

The Department of Business Education has announced that the petition submitted by BSC for a chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon (National Honorary Professional Graduate Fraternity in Business Education) was accepted by the DPE National Board at its summer meeting in Hartford.

The next step in the application process provides for a visit to the BSC campus by a DPE visitation team. Members of the team will meet college administration, departmental faculty, graduate students, and other key personnel. They will also review library resources, computer services, instructional facilities, and similar support services.

Following its visit, which is scheduled for October 26-28, the visitation team will prepare a written report for submission to the DPE National Board.

The BSC Concert Choir will perform at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida, on Thursday, March 5. They will perform at noon on the Fantasy Faire Stage.

Director William Decker is looking for sponsors for other Florida concerts during the choir's Florida trip (February 26 to March 8). Anyone who lives in the Orlando area or along the state's east coast could help immensely.

Please contact Dr. Decker if you can help the choir in any way.

Music and theatre events of interest to alumni on campus this fall are:

November 16, BSC Orchestra, Haas Auditorium (contact Dr. John Master or Dr. Richard Stanislaw), 2:30 p.m. Tickets required.

November 20-22, Bloomsburg Players, Carver Hall (contact Mr. William Acierino), 8:15 p.m. Tickets required.

December 5 and 7, BSC Concert Choir, Carver Hall (contact Dr. William Decker), 8:15 p.m., Friday; 2:30 p.m., Sunday.

Fannie B. (Comstock) Smith '05 wrote to us recently: "I am very sorry I was unable to attend the 75th reunion of the Class of 1905. I appreciate and thank you for the material you sent concerning the reunion. "So many things have happened since 1905 it would be impossible to put them in a short letter, but I would like to give you a few highlights.

Campbell gift

In his will, Campbell stipulated that the four trustees could distribute $250,000 of the estate as they saw fit. A number of Berwick area organizations have also received gifts from the estate.

President McCormick, in accepting the $10,000 check, said the gift will be used by the music department to enhance the quality of the educational program for music majors as well as students interested in music as a co-curricular activity.

He said this is a fine example of the way in which financial contributions from alumni and other sources can be used to provide "the margin of excellence" at Bloomsburg.

Others attending the luncheon were Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration at BSC; Dr. Donald Rabb, a member of the BSC faculty and close friend of the Campbell family, John Walker, assistant to the president; and Doug Hippenstiel, director of alumni affairs.

Campbell was a graduate of Berwick High School (1910) and Valparaiso (Indiana) University. After working in the law offices of Berwick Attorney Alex Jackson, he became manager of the Hammond Organ Studios in New York City. He then purchased the W.W. Kimball Piano business in Washington.

At the time of his death, he had four outlets in addition to his main store on G Street in Washington.

Other trustees of the estate are Mrs. Beth Evans, West Chester; William W. Phillips of S. Frank Levy & Co., Washington D.C.; and John B. Huffaker of the legal firm, Pepper, Hamilton and Scheetz, Philadelphia.

"I married Ralph E. Smith of Bloomsburg in 1910. We have three daughters. We lived in Knoxville, Tennessee, for a few years, but left in November of 1929 because of Ralph's health. We came west to New Mexico, which is a very beautiful state. We all love it. It becomes hot in summer, with very low humidity and our nights are never too warm. A person usually needs a light blanket, especially toward morning.

"We arrived in Albuquerque during the depression. I secured a teaching position in the city schools and taught for over 20 years. About 70 percent of my students were Spanish-American. I have never worked with nicer families. They were very appreciative of anything I did for their children.

"The first two years in New Mexico I was teaching in a country school, ten miles from any store and a mile from the nearest neighbor; only coyotes and cattle and horses nearby. I had never lived in the country and was afraid of the cactus—it looked like a man with a gun. Also, the tumbleweeds would blow across the road when you were driving along the highway and at first we could not imagine what they were. I finally conquered my fears and came to love all the interesting sights in New Mexico. Ralph was superintendent of schools in a nearby town.

"I was 94 years old last March and am living with my oldest daughter. I still manage to be quite active and enjoy many hobbies, one of my main ones is growing violets. I am a member of the local NRTA, Senior Citizens Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club."

Thank you for your report, Mrs. Smith.

Caroline (Clark) Myers '05 died on July 3. A person of many achievements, Mrs. Myers in 1918 was the first woman teacher ever to be employed by the U.S. Army. She became a Laura Spellman Rockefeller Scholar in 1930. She was a major influence in building "Highlights" magazine to its current status as a widely-known periodical for children, with over 1,300,000 subscribers.

The Freedom Foundation of Valley Forge gave her its National Recognition Award in 1976. She received the Distinguished Service Award from the BSC Alumni Association in 1950.

Mrs. Myers had also studied at Ursinus and Juniata colleges, as well as Teachers College at Columbia University and the Merrill Palmer School in Detroit. In the 1930s and 1940s, she taught courses at Western Reserve University, the University of Washington and Oregon State College.

Word has been received that Agnes Wallace Rees '07 died on July 21. She was 92 and lived in Livermore, California. We last heard from Mrs. Rees in late May. Over the years, Mrs. Rees kept in close touch with the Alumni Office and always spoke with great fondness of her days at Bloomsburg.

1910

Sara F. Lewis '10 writes that she feels fine now that she is back home again and walking normally. She had sustained a multiple fracture of the left ankle and had been hospitalized and receiving therapy for five months. She says she enjoyed the last Quarterly and was glad to hear of the projects planned for the BSC campus. Miss Lewis resides at 28 E. Pettebone St., Forty Fort, Pa. 18704.

1911

Ethel Grace (Adamson) Sturgis '11 died on June 24.

She was active in church work and was a long-time member of the Philadelphia Chapter of BSC Alumni. She is survived by her husband, a son, a brother and two grandchildren.

1914

Mary (Emanuel) Brown '14 died on April 9, 1979. She was a life-long resident of Wilkes-Barre and taught school there until her retirement. About five years ago, she had a stroke and was handicapped until her death. A sister, Nan Emanuel, survives.

1915

Ruth E. Pooley '15 of Bloomsburg died on October 16. Miss Pooley was an elementary teacher in the Hemlock Township Schools from 1915 to 1918 and at the Berwick Elementary Schools for two years before joining the faculty of the Bloomsburg School District in 1920. She retired in 1962 after a teaching career of 47 years.

Miss Pooley was a cooperating teacher for BSC student teachers from 1924 to 1962. She was active in her church and taught Sunday School for many years.

She was a member of the BSC Alumni Association and the Columbia County Historical Society. She is survived by a brother, two nieces and several great-nieces and nephews.

(The following information is a summary of the BSC fall sports season. This issue covers the events through Friday, October 17. Sports summarized include football, soccer, field hockey, women's tennis, men's tennis, women's cross country and men's cross country.)

FOOTBALL (0-5)

First-year head coach Clark Boler and his staff are beginning the new decade by trying to rebuild BSC's football program into a consistent winner. The Huskies have experienced only two winning campaigns since 1970. They posted a 5-3 mark in that year under Coach Jerry Denstorf and were 6-4 under Ron Puhl in 1978.

The roster is dominated by underclassmen with only 13 seniors on the 83-man squad, and the inexperience has shown throughout the first five games with numerous turnovers and costly penalties. However, each week the young team shows marked improvement over its last performance.

Boler is still looking at all his personnel in game situations in an effort to evaluate them for the rest of this year and the seasons to follow.

Ithaca 58 BSC 3 The defending NCAA Division III national champions helped BSC open the season at Redman Stadium on September 6. The Huskies battled the Bombers on even terms for the first 20 minutes before the visitors exploded for seven touchdowns in the second and third quarters. Fullback Bob Ferrigno, an All-American candidate, rushed for 100 yards and two touchdowns, as well as being on the receiving end of a 46-yard touchdown pass, to lead the Ithaca attack. Poor field position hurt the Huskies the entire game as the Bombers racked up the 58 points on row, the defense gave a solid performance, but five intercepted passes kept the Huskies attack from scoring more. Flanker Duane Frantz had an outstanding day with six catches for 88 yards.

West Chester 41 BSC 17 After an open date the weekend before, the Huskies returned to action by traveling to West Chester to meet the Rams on October 10 in a Friday night contest. Running backs Tyrone Scott and Ron Perkins proved to be too much for Bloomsburg as they accounted for five of the six touchdowns and 218 yards rushing. The Huskies took a short-lived 3-0 lead on Doug Berry's 36-yard field goal, but then the floodgates opened. Scott scored on West Chester's next three possessions on jaunts of 14, 23 and six yards respectively, and Perkins added runs of one and 65 yards before the half. BSC's ground game, which was averaging 39 yards a game to that point, more than tripled that with 128 yards on the night.

NEXT ISSUE: Summary of Millersville, Cheyney, Kutztown and East Stroudsburg games.

SOCCER (4-8-1)

Coach Lou Mingrone went into the season with a lot of big gaps to fill. Eight of the 11 starters from last year's ECAC Southern Regional championship team that posted an impressive 13-1 mark were gone, and only four seniors were on the roster of 31 players.

The Huskies started very slowly, losing eight of their first 10 games before coming back to win the last three.

Lock Haven 11 BSC 0 The Bald Eagles, according to Mingrone, "were the best soccer team I've ever seen; they didn't miss a pass or trap all day." Lock Haven moved from NCAA Division III up to Division II this year and are currently ranked No. 1 in the country.

Elizabethtown 2 BSC 1 (overtime) First round of the Blue Jay Classic held at Elizabethtown. Sophomore striker Tony Bloom tallied the Huskies' only goal to give BSC the lead at the half, but the host Blue Jays got a second half goal to send it into overtime where they won it.

St. Lawrence 2 BSC 1 (overtime) Consolation round of Blue Jay Classic. This was almost a carbon copy of the Elizabethtown game. Luke Sakalosky, a transfer from East Stroudsburg State, scored for BSC in the first half, only to see the lead disappear in the second half. The winning goal came again in overtime.

BSC 1 Shippensburg 0 (overtime) The Huskies picked up their first win on senior Toby Rank's penalty kick in overtime. BSC had numerous chances to score in regulation, but just couldn't get on the board. This was also the booters' first home game of the year.

Scranton 4 BSC 0 The Royals were ranked No. 7 in the NCAA Division III and moving up at game time. BSC kept it close, trailing 1-0 at the half, but Scranton's strength wore the Huskies down and got them three second half goals.

Millersville 2 BSC 1 On the road for the fifth time in six games. The Marauders took the lead early with two goals in the first five minutes, and the Huskies couldn't catch up. Luke Sakalosky tallied for BSC in the second half, but it wasn't enough.

Maryland/Baltimore County 4 BSC 1 Robert Lord scored all four of the winners' goals as a three-goal second half destroyed the Huskies again. UMBC had a 1-0 lead when Toby Rank tied it for BSC before the roof caved in.

BSC 0 York 0 The Huskies dominated every statistical category, but had to settle for the tie. BSC had a 17-10 advantage in shots and 10 corner kicks to four for the Spartans. This was only the third home contest in the first eight for Mingrone's charges.

Indiana U. of Pa. 4 BSC 1 The first of seven consecutive road games for BSC. Freshman Fred McCaffrey tallied the Huskies' only goal, the first of his college career. The Huskies continue to be plagued by a lack of scoring.

Slippery Rock 5 BSC 3 The Huskies' highest offensive output of the year still wasn't enough to defeat the high-scoring Rockets. Captains Toby Rank and Brian Farrell accounted for all three BSC goals. Rank had two goals and Farrell added the other.

BSC 2 Bucknell 1 Bloomsburg stunned the Division I Bisons when Toby Rank scored on a penalty kick near the middle of the second half. Luke Sakalosky tallied the Huskies' first goal to give them a 1-0 lead at the half before Bucknell tied it to set the stage for the winning score.

BSC 2 Lycoming 0 The Huskies won their second straight on goals by Fred McCaffrey and Bill Sypawka. BSC completely dominated by outshooting the Warriors, 29-4. The young team is starting to play more consistently with each game.

BSC 4 Wilkes 0 The Huskies' best offensive output of the season. Luke Sakalosky led the way with two goals, one in each half. Fred McCaffrey and Ron Mattern chipped in one goal each. BSC totally dominated the Colonels by outshooting them, 22-6.

FIELD HOCKEY (6-4-2)

Coach Jan Hutchinson, in her third year only 306 yards total offense and just eight first downs.

Shippensburg 42 BSC 13 The Huskies took to the road for the first time to help the Raiders celebrate Town/College Day in Seth Grove Stadium on September 13. Shippensburg held BSC to 164 total yards offensively while it racked up 448 yards. Halfback Tom Sloan scored two first half touchdowns to help SSC take a 19-0 lead at halftime, and they never looked back, scoring 23 second-half points. Freshman Steve Meszaros gave the Huskies something to cheer about when he took the second half kickoff 99 yards to paydirt. Quarterback Dale Crooks had a fine day in the air for BSC, hitting 11 of 28 passes for 189 yards.

Lock Haven 16 BSC 6 A much-improved Husky squad took the field against the defending Pennsylvania Conference champion Bald Eagles on September 20. Although they had four passes intercepted and two fumbles lost, the Huskies fought back from an early 9-0 deficit only to fall short. At the height of Bloomsburg's comeback, the Lock Haven punter got off a 72-yard kick to pin the Huskies deep in their own territory and then after the change of possession drove in for their final score of the day.

Mansfield 14 BSC 13 On September 27, BSC's best opportunity for victory fell just short when a two-point conversion with 6:05 left in the game failed and left the Huskies one point behind. Head Coach Joe Bottiglieri, a BSC grad, brought the Mounties to Redman Stadium for Parents' Weekend and captured their first victory in almost a year. For the second week in a at the helm, didn't know what to expect. Seven players were gone from last year's 5-4-4 squad, and the Huskies' season would depend a great deal on how well the incoming freshmen developed early in the season.

Senior Lauren May currently leads the team in scoring with five goals and two assists.

The Huskies will be aiming for their fifth consecutive winning season in just the seventh year of field hockey at BSC. The sport began in 1974 and has compiled a very respectable 35-19-14 record.

BSC 3 Trenton State 2 Jeanne Fetch and Diane Imboden scored second half goals to lead the Huskies to an upset of the highly-touted Lions. This was the first round of the Trenton State Invitational Tournament.

Salisbury State 3 BSC 1 The final of the Trenton State Tourney. The Seagulls took an early lead and BSC never caught up. Linda Turnbull scored the Huskies' only goal of the game.

BSC 0 Lock Haven 0 The Huskies surprised the nationally-ranked Bald Eagles with a super defensive effort. Hutchinson stated afterwards that "today our program got a big boost."

BSC 2 Kutztown 0 BSC totally outplayed their opponents from start to finish. Diane Imboden and Polly Dougherty tallied for the Huskies as they played their third home contest in a row.

BSC 0 Indiana U. of Pa. 0 The Huskies wasted 24 shots on goals in a disappointing game. BSC pelted the IUP goalie from beginning to end but couldn't score.

BSC 3 Mansfield 0 The Huskies totally outclassed the Mounties on goals by Jane Reed, Polly Dougherty and Robin Elsner. BSC had an 18-3 edge in shots and a 14-5 advantage in corners.

BSC 4 Messiah 0 The best offensive effort of the season. Lauren May scored three goals and assisted on the fourth. Diane Imboden tallied the other goal. Again, the Huskies totally dominated in shots and corners.

East Stroudsburg 3 BSC 1 The powerful Warriors scored twice in the second half to pull out the win. Captain Lauren May scored the Huskies' only goal. Each team took 13 shots on goal.

Wilkes 2 BSC 1 The Huskies had a 1-0 lead at halftime, but couldn't hold on in this one. It was a disappointing loss for BSC despite Wilkes' fine 6-1-1 record at the time. Robin Elsner tallied BSC's only score.

BSC 3 Susquehanna 1 The Huskies led from start to finish in this one. Jeanne Fetch, Deb Long and Lauren May scored BSC's goals. Long's goal came on a penalty stroke.

Shippensburg 3 BSC 0 Last year's AIAW Division III national champions were too tough for the Huskies. A freak play broke BSC's back when they knocked the ball into their own net. On the same play Shippensburg was awarded a penalty stroke and quickly capitalized for a 2-0 lead in a matter of seconds.

BSC 1 Bucknell 0 Diane Imboden scored the only goal of the game in the second half. This was one of the best games of the season with a lot of action the entire time.

WOMEN'S TENNIS (7-2)

Coach "Doc" Herbert's lady netters proved they were a force to be reckoned with in the Pennsylvania Conference championships held at BSC on Oct. 17-18 with another outstanding dual match record. The team streaked to a 5-0 mark before consecutive losses to Slippery Rock and Bucknell. The Huskies, who play in both the fall and the spring, were 12-2 last year and are looking for big things in 1980-81. Over the past three years the squad has compiled an impressive 30-10 record.

BSC 6 Edinboro 3 BSC won four of six singles matches and two of three doubles to down the Fighting Scots. Edinboro had finished third in the PC tourney last year, while the Huskies placed fourth.

BSC 6 East Stroudsburg 3 Again the Huskies won four singles and two doubles matches. The Warriors are the second team BSC has beaten that finished higher than the Huskies in the Pennsylvania Conference race. ESSC won the title last year.

BSC 8 Millersville 1 The Huskies destroyed the Marauders on their first road trip of the year. Jane Kaufman (No. 2), Deb Orendorff (No. 3) and Linda Becker (No. 6) all remained unbeaten.

BSC 7 Lock Haven 2 The netters returned home to knock off the Bald Eagles. Kaufman, Orendorff and Becker led the way with easy wins and remained undefeated.

six singles and all three doubles.

NEXT ISSUE: Report on the conference tournament.

MEN'S TENNIS (7-0)

The seventh straight undefeated fall season for Burt Reese's charges. The Huskies are two-time defending Pennsylvania Conference champions and show no signs of weakening. After last year's NCAA Division II national championships, the Huskies showed up in eighth place. This accomplishment was even more amazing when you realize only half the team was invited!

BSC was also the defending champion at the ECAC Division II and III tournament, but chose to step up to the Division I event where they finished tenth. They were the Conference. There were some close individual matches, but the Huskies didn't lose a match.

BSC 9 Scranton 0 The Huskies met the hosts of the quadrangular in the final match and swept everything. The top three matches went five sets but again BSC won them all.

BSC 9 West Chester 0 Another easy win for Reese's squad. To this point in the season, the team had only given up two points to its opponents.

BSC 6 Bucknell 0 The last in a line of shutouts. Doubles play was suspended because of darkness, but the Huskies had enough, points long before that.

The netmen open their spring season with George Washington University on March 18, the first of five matches on their Southern trip.

WOMEN'S CROSSCOUNTRY (1-1)

New head coach Carolyn Wernstedt took over the team in its second year of existence. Last season only four girls competed, but in 1980 12 girls make up the squad. Although their record isn't impressive, they have already made their presence known by winning both invitational events they entered. The schedule is made up of these invitationals, with very few dual meets.

Lebanon Valley Invitational The Huskies got good grouping led by freshman Vicki Amici, who placed fourth individually. BSC captured five of the first 10 places. Other high finishers included Lori Pingitore, sixth; Terri Purcell, seventh; Lauren Meymaris, eighth; and Anne Grab, tenth.

Kutztown Invitational The Huskies nipped host Kutztown by one point to win their second title in two events. The top 12 finishers in this even broke the existing course record. Again the Huskies placed five runners in the top ten. Lauren Meymaris was fourth; Lori Pingitore, sixth; Vicki Amici, seventh; Terri Purcell, eighth; and Anne Grab, ninth.

BSC 22 Lock Haven 37 (low score wins) This was a triangular meet at BSC with Bucknell. It was the only home meet scheduled for the women this season.

BSC 9 Wilkes 0 As the score indicated, this was the Huskies' easiest match to date. The team only gave up eight games in six singles and three doubles matches. No one lost more than two games in a match.

Slippery Rock 5 BSC 4 The first loss of the season. BSC played without the services of No. 4 player Ellen Williams. Linda Becker, who was forced to move up a position, lost her first match of the season. These two teams should battle for the top spot in the conference tournament.

Bucknell 8 BSC 1 The Huskies lost their second in a row. BSC was never in this one with the powerful Bisons. Kaulman and Orendorff lost for the first time to leave the Huskies with no one unbeaten for the season.

BSC 9 Lycoming 0 The Huskies didn't lose a set while beating the relatively weak Warriors. This was only the second match of the season played on the road.

BSC 8 Scranton 1 The last dual match of the season. The Huskies used this one to get ready for the upcoming tournament. The romp over the Royals included five of only Division II school among the 19 entrants.

BSC 9 Lycoming 0 The Huskies opened the season with an easy win. They didn't lose a set in this romp over the outclassed Warriors.

BSC Invitational This is one of the finest tournaments in the East. BSC finished tied with Cornell in fifth place. The U.S. Naval Academy edged out Hampton Institute of Virginia and Penn State by a single point. Mercyhurst finished fourth. Other teams involved were East Coast Conference champ Temple, who finished seventh, and Haverford, eighth.

BSC 7 Lock Haven 1 BSC swept all six singles to beat the improving Bald Eagles. The Huskies substituted freely in the doubles which were stopped by darkness before completion.

BSC 8 Haverford 1 This was the first match in a quadrangular match at Scranton. Three matches in two days. The Huskies lost just one singles match and put on a solid doubles performance to sweep.

BSC 9 Upsala 0 In this match, BSC beat one of the top teams in the Middle Atlantic

Edith A. Dennis '19 died in June. She was a retired teacher. She was very active in church work, women's associations, YWCA and a member of the Foreign Policy Association. She is survived by a sister, Hope Dennis, and several nieces and nephews.

1920

Helen S. (White) Noack '20 died June 13 in Phoenix, Arizona. She was born on October 13, 1899, in Scranton, Pa.

H. Keffer Hartline '20 has been named an honorary member of the Optical Society of America in recognition of the preeminent service he has rendered in the advancement of optics.

The number of honorary members of the Society is restricted to six. Election to honorary membership requires unanimous action by the board of directors of the Society.

Professor Hartline is an emeritus member of the faculty of The Rockefeller University. His research, directed to understanding of the electrophysiology of the retina, has provided results that have influenced the entire field of vision research. He was awarded the 1967 Nobel Prize in physiology jointly with Ragnar Granit and George Wald.

After leaving Bloomsburg, Dr. Hartline received his B.S. degree at Lafayette College in 1923. His research career, which has spanned more than 50 years, began the same year with the publication of his first paper, "Influences of light of very low intensity on phototropic reactions of animals."

He was awarded the M.D. degree by The Johns Hopkins University in 1927, having published two more contributions by the time the degree was awarded, one on pecten and the other on electrical responses to illumination.

Following a two-year post-doctoral fellowship at Johns Hopkins, and fellowships at the universities of Leipzig and Munich, Dr. Hartline joined the E.R. Johnson Foundation of the University of Pennsylvania in 1931. He remained there until 1948, except for a year spent on the faculty of Cornell University Medical College. He was professor of biophysics at Johns Hopkins from 1949 to 1953, when he joined the faculty of The Rockefeller University. In 1972 he was named to the Detlev W. Bronk Professorship, the first endowed chair established at Rockefeller.

In research extending over more than half a century, Dr. Hartline has made many original observations of the physical and electrical activities of the optic nerve. Through the use of quantitative mathematical methodology and complex electronic devices, he has recorded and compared the activity of nerve fibers and retinal receptors in vertebrate and invertebrate animals, particularly in the horseshoe crab, Limulus, whose compound eye, with its large photo-receptors, long optic nerve, and related simple retinal organization, makes it well suited to visual research.

The techniques developed by Dr. Hartline are now used in laboratories all over the world. His collected papers were published in 1973 by The Rockefeller University Press and Chapman Hall Ltd., of England, under the title "Studies on Excitation and Inhibition in the Retina," Floyd Ratliff, editor.

Dr. Hartline's honors are extensive. In addition to the Nobel Prize, he was the 1965 recipient of the BSC Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award. Other honors include an honorary degree from Lafayette College, the University of Pennsylvania, The Rockefeller University, the University of Maryland, Syracuse University, The Johns Hopkins University, and the Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg.

He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Philosophical Society, the American Physiological Society, the Society for Neuroscience, Phi Beta Kappa, and Sigma Xi. He is also a foreign member of the Royal Society in London. He is a fellow of the Optical Society of America and has been a member for over 40 years.

Mercando honored as outstanding teacher

Dr. Neil A. Mercado, assistant professor of biology at Penn State's Ogontz Campus, named The Ogontz Outstanding Teacher at the campus' annual honors convocation earlier this year.

Mercando's theory of combining textbook principles with field work in an effort to make science more interesting for non-science majors won him recognition for innovations in college science teaching.

"Witness the salt marsh," he explained. "Apparently barren, it teems with life—myriad bacterial forms constantly devouring decaying material and producing nutrients for high life forms, a nursery ground for marine life. The tide comes in, flushes and recycles; suspends material in the water and redistributes it. Constantly changing and growing, the salt marsh is one of the most productive systems in nature. You can learn about it in a textbook, but until you see and experience it, the vitality of nature cannot be valued."

Surprised at the national recognition, Mercado does not see his idea as unique. "Field work has always been useful," he said. "But why should an experience like that be limited to the field biologist?"

Mercando discovered how the absorption of nature by living in it proved effective through two specific personal experiences.

One of these is his advisory position with the campus Ecological-Action Club, a group of mostly non-science majors who are interested in the preservation of the nation's resources.

With the club, Mercado has taken camping trips to the New Jersey Pine Barrens, rafted down the Cheat River in West Virginia and visited the Wallops Island Marine Station in Virginia. He watched the students, up to their waists in mud, experience science in action while collecting, sampling, measuring.

"They learned so much more in these informal situations. They saw, felt and smelled it, and their curiosity was aroused. I saw them develop an attitude toward the environment not possible in textbook situations—and their learning was more permanent."

Mercando also saw non-scientists become scientifically curious when he led a group of elementary school teachers enrolled in a continuing education course through the Bahamas on a sailing tour in 1978. Most of the class was composed of people who insisted they were not interested in sophisticated scientific research. To Mercado's astonishment, the result was unbridled enthusiasm. "They couldn't wait to get out there. Nature itself stimulated their interest."

Mercando began stomping around ponds himself while working for a B.S. in education at BSC. He spent 10 weeks on an island in western Lake Erie at a comprehensive field station.

Mercando earned an M.S. in zoology and a Ph.D. in zoology in North Carolina State University, where he studied marine invertebrates. He has been a faculty member at Ogontz since 1976.

For his efforts in creating this experiential teaching concept, "something I've dreamed about for years," Mercado received the Gustav Ohaus-National Science Teachers Association award and $500 from the Ohaus Scale Corporation during the NSTA's banquet in March at Anaheim, California.

The Ogontz Outstanding Teacher Award included a plaque and $200.

This summer Mercado made his new concept a reality. The eight-week course was structured around four overnight field trips and four local, one-day trips. These are supported by lectures and laboratory classes which supply the fundamentals.

Aspects of physical, chemical and geological studies, biology, ecology, astronomy and meteorology were investigated in Peace Valley Nature Center in Doylestown, Beltsville Dam and Hickory Run State Park near Hazleton.

Mercando really wants to make his students better-informed citizens and voters at a time when environmental issues such as scenic preservation and nuclear power have become hotly-debated issues.

Mercando is well remembered for his exploits on the gridiron while he was at BSC. He lives in Chalfont, Pa., with his wife, Bonnie, and son, Jeff.
